SENATE GROUP GRANTS BOOST IN D. C. FUNDS

Federal "Lump Sum" Is Increased to Total of $6,250,000.

4 SCHOOL PROJECTS AGAIN PUT IN BILL

Revised Draft Also Includes Appropriation for Calvert Street Bridge.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The Senate District Appropriations subcommittee yesterday voted a moderate increase in the Federal "lump sum," restored four school construction projects eliminated by the House and reinserted funds for the Calvert Street Bridge in a revised draft of the District appropriations bill.

Changes in the measure, arrived at following extensive hearings, will not formally be made public until the subcommittee reports to the full Senate Appropriations Committee today or tomorrow. It was authoritatively reported, however, that the lump sum was increased from the $5,700,000 House figure to $6,250,000. This compares with $7,775,000 appropriated last year and $9,500,000 allowed the year previous.

Changes in Measure.

Other important changes, reliably said to have been made, are:

Appropriations for 1934 unemployment relief increased from $1,250,000 allowed by the Budget Bureau to $1,500,000.

School Project Restored.

Reinserted $876,000 to begin construction of Woodrow Wilson High School, Logan Junior High School and additions to the Brown and Deal Junior High Schools.

The $1,000,000 item for repayment to the Federal Government of park development borrowings suspended for one year.

Forced Sale Held After Fifth Attempt

Pennsburg, Pa., April 25 (A.P.).—While a crowd of more than 100 farmers was held back on the roadside by about 75 sheriff's deputies, a relative by marriage of John Lelko today bought in Lelko's live stock and farming implements at a forced sale.

This was the fifth attempt to hold the sale. Farmers previously had routed deputies, handling them roughly at one time.

With police standing by with pistols and tear gas bombs, Michael Budnick, Allentown, Pa., farmer and son-in-law of the owner of the mortgage, was jeered by Lelko's wife and daughter. Loud boos by the farmers along the roadside failed to drown out the successful bid of $1,000 for the property.

London (Wednesday), April 26 (U.P.).—King Carol's palace in Bucharest, Roumania, was seriously damaged by fire last night, a dispatch to the Daily Mail today reported.

Vasco Girl's Eye Removed

HELEN VASCO,
Who underwent an operation on her eye yesterday which her parents had opposed, but which physicians said would save her life.

Operation to Save Life of Child Follows Court's Overruling Parents.

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—Two-year-old Helen Vasco underwent the operation today that two courts ordered, after doctors said it was necessary to save her life, and that her parents for weeks had opposed because it meant the loss of her left eye.

The surgery took just 15 minutes. It was performed by Dr. John H. Dunnington, assistant to Dr. John M. Wheeler. Dr. Wheeler removed a cataract from the eye of the King of Siam in 1931.

The little girl's condition afterward was described at the Presbyterian Hospital as "entirely satisfactory," but physicians said her chances would have been better if the growth on her eye had been removed when it first was discovered.

"While an operation offers to sufferers of glioma of the eye the only possible chance of conserving life," said a statement by Dr. Iago Galdston, executive secretary of the medical information bureau of the New York Academy of Medicine, "this chance is not a full one insofar as

FOUR SEIZED IN RIOT AT NAT-YANK GAME

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

The high-riding spikes of Ben Chapman, king of American League base stealers, yesterday put the torch to the highly combustible ill feeling between the Nats and the New York Yankees and transformed Griffith Stadium's diamond and the Washington dugout into a seething melee of flying fists that delayed the game for 20 minutes, resulted in the banishment of four players, the arrival of the police riot squad, called by radio, and the arrest of three civilians.

The battle broke out at second base, where Chapman barged into Buddy Myer in a successful attempt to break up a double play, and then it carried over into the Nats' dugout when Chapman, fresh from a set-to with Myer on the playing field, swung on the jaw of Earl Whitehill while en route to the dressing room after his banishment.

The 7,000 in the stands then witnessed an old-fashioned free-for-all in close proximity to the Presidential box, where Vice President Garner was watching the game. Whitehill struck back at Chapman and after a furious exchange was wrestled to the ground by the New York player, while approximately 300 fans tumbled out of the closest seats onto the playing field to take part in the slugging, with Chapman the object of their attack.

Yankee teammates of Chapman rushed across the field from their dugout while Washington teammates of Whitehill formed about him as protection, but the fans from out of the grand stand were the first to reach the Yankee left fielder and

Navy to Abandon Lakehurst Station

Admiral Pratt Says So in Letter to New Jersey Town's Official.

(Associated Press.)

The Navy's intention to decommission the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, N. J., "in the near future" was expressed yesterday in a letter made public at the Navy Department from Admiral William V. Pratt, Chief of Naval Operations, to O. L. Dickerson, township solicitor at Lakewood, N. J. Dickerson had sent the department a copy of a resolution passed by the township committee favoring maintenance of the air station.

Pratt, as acting Secretary of the Navy, replied that in view of the shortage of funds and the pressing need for economy, the department would not be able to maintain the air station in full commission in view of the loss of the airship Akron and the fact that the airship Macon would be sent to the Sunnyvale (Calif.) Naval Air Station for operation with the fleet.

"It is therefore the department's intention to decommission the Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, in the near future," Pratt wrote.

DOUGLAS O. K. ASKED ON BUCHANAN PLAN

Approval of Budget Chief Is Sought for Selective Retirements.

Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas will be asked today to put the seal of administration approval on a plan to modify automatic 30-year Federal retirement recommendations carried in the independent offices appropriations bill.

Mr. Douglas was requested to appear before the subcommittee at 10:30 a. m. today. He will discuss with members, Chairman James P. Buchanan's plan to make retirements after 30 years "selective" rather than "compulsory."

Meanwhile, a number of new retirement proposals were forthcoming yesterday. One, sponsored by Representative Taber (Republican), New York, proposed that for two years the President be given authority to retire those whose physical condition and efficiency ratings indicate they can best be spared.

The Civil Service Commission, headed by Chairman Thomas P. Campbell, slated soon to retire, yesterday supplied the committee with factual data on efficiency ratings and other statistics asked. The commission always has favored a system of optional retirement after 30 years.

House Appropriations Chairman Buchanan declined yesterday to make public the plan by which he hopes to modify the Budget Bureau proposals, leaving dismissals after 30 years dis-

Counterfeit Plant Seized at Trenton

Capital Man One of Three Held in "Best" Copies of Silver Coins.

Charlotte, N. C., April 25 (A.P.).—Henry Thomas, Secret Service agent here, announced today that as a result of three arrests in Charlotte April 4 a plant manufacturing "the best counterfit" silver coins ever distributed in this country had been seized in Trenton, N. J.

Allen Rock, white, and Milton Welton and Rufus Horton, Negroes, were arrested here three weeks ago and charged with passing counterfeit coins. Rock's Washington, D. C., address was secured and a search of his apartment in that city revealed papers which indicated the money was being made at Trenton.

New York Secret Service men raided the Trenton address and arrested Frank Carlisi, Thomas said, and seized a number of counterfeit half-dollars, quarters and dimes. Thomas said the coins had been widely distributed south of Washington.

PASSAGE SEEN FOR INFLATION DESPITE FIGHT

Foes Ready to Yield if Roosevelt's Powers Are Modified.

REED AND HARRISON IN COLORFUL CLASH

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Inflation made the Senate just a big, happy family for a time yesterday, but six hours more of mixed clowning and grave warnings of disaster to come failed to swerve the easy-money majority from their course.

At the end of a jolly day which had called up every inflationary experiment since the fat and indolent times of Greece and Rome, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, repeated his prediction that the four-way currency expansion program ultimately would be enacted in substantially its present form. An attempt to secure unanimous consent for a limitation of debate after 4 o'clock this afternoon, however, failed. Republican Leader McNary said several members on his side wished to discuss other phases of the legislation before voting.

Silver's Outcome in Doubt.

A formula which would deprive President Roosevelt of the contemplated authority to change the gold content of the dollar, but without appearing to nullify the bill, is being sought by Democratic and Republican opponents of inflation. They hope that a phraseology acceptable to the Democratic leadership, and within the Constitution, may be presented today. With such an amendment, the inflation bill would be passed by a safe majority, on the understanding that the first phases, credit expansion, would be limited to open market operations by the Federal Reserve System; that the gold content of the dollar would not be altered save through international agreement, and that no direct expansion of the currency would be ordered by the President until the results of the projected world economic conference are at hand.

Glass Compares Statutes.

Under this plan the problem of silver still remains to be disposed of in the Senate. Administration leaders acknowledge there may be some further delay in working out the details

MacCormack, as Head of Immigration, Is on Confirmed List.

(Associated Press.)

Five more Roosevelt nominations received Senate confirmation yesterday, including that of Daniel W. MacCormack, of New York, as commissioner general of immigration.

Rear Admiral Christian J. Peoples was confirmed for a four-year term, beginning April 29, as paymaster general and chief of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts of the Navy. Others approved were:

Theodore A. Walters, of Idaho, to succeed Joseph M. Dixon as First Assistant Secretary of the Interior; Thomas F. Thomas, of Utah, register of the land office at Salt Lake City, and James B. Young, of Pennsylvania, as a consul general in the Foreign Service.

SMITH AND DIES MOVE TO PUNISH JUDGE LOWELL

HOUSE MEMBERS ARE BITTER IN CRITICISM

"Never a More Flagrant Case," Brig. Gen. Mitchell Says at Leesburg.

A House Judiciary Committee investigation of the conduct of Federal Judge James A. Lowell, of Boston, who Monday freed under a habeas corpus writ George Crawford, colored, charged with the murder of Mrs. Spencer Ilsley and her maid near Middleburg, Va., will be asked from the House floor today by Representative Howard W. Smith (Democrat), Virginia.

Representative Smith will introduce a resolution authorizing the committee to determine whether Judge Lowell has been guilty of any high crime or misdemeanor warranting impeachment action by the House. He will demand that Judge Lowell be impeached.

Meanwhile, Representative Martin Dies (Democrat), Texas, will go before the House Judiciary Committee at 10:30 a. m. to argue the merits of a resolution he introduced yesterday asking that the Federal judgeship held by Lowell be abolished.

Draft of Resolution.

The Smith resolution to be presented today will ask appropriation of $5,000 to finance the proposed Judiciary Committee inquiry. The committee would be empowered to continue the investigation into the summer, if necessary, either in the District or elsewhere, and to compel attendance of witnesses and production of records.

As drafted last night by Representative Smith, following conferences with Commonwealth's Attorney Galliher of Loudoun County, who returned yesterday from Boston, the resolution read:

"Resolved, That the Committee of the Judiciary is authorized and directed as a whole or subcommittee to inquire into and investigate the official conduct of James A. Lowell, a district judge for the United States District Court for the District of Massachusetts, to determine whether, in the opinion of said committee, he has been guilty of any crime or misdemeanors, which in the contemplation of the Constitution requires the interposition of the Constitutional powers of the House.

"Said committee shall report its findings to the House, together with such resolution of impeachment or other resolution as it deems proper."

Termed Virginia Insult.

Representative Dies, who declared Lowell had violated both his oath of office and "every sense of decency

Boiling Water Topples on Them When Father Tries to Adjust Broken Leg of Stove; Their Condition Is Serious.

Scalded when the kitchen range toppled over emptying a kettle of boiling water on them, Betty Yeatman, 6, and her sister, Mildred, 8 years old, of Brentwood, Md., were in serious condition last night at Providence Hospital.

The accident occurred as a tragic climax to a birthday party for Bobby Yeatman, 12-year-old brother of the girls. In celebration of the boy's birthday, the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Yeatman, invited all the children of the neighborhood to the home, and the party had been practically an all-day affair.

In preparing the children for bed, the father was heating water for their baths on the kitchen range which had a broken leg. He noticed the leg was slightly out of place, and was attempting to adjust it, when the stove toppled over, spilling the kettle of water on the two small girls standing nearby.

L. B. Miller, a neighbor and a member of the Bladensburg rescue squad, was called to give first aid, and the children were rushed to Providence Hospital in the rescue squad ambulance.

The condition of both children is serious. They were deeply burned about their bodies, limbs and feet.

WHITE HOUSE PARLEY CHOOSES JUNE 12 FOR WORLD CONFERENCE

CONSULTATIVE PACT SOUGHT

New Treaty Version May Be Brought by Jung, En Route.

(Associated Press.)

June 12 has been agreed upon by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister MacDonald and former Premier Herriot as the opening date for the world economic conference at London.

The decision to open the international meeting on that date was interpreted as indicating the achievement of some substantial progress in the conversations among the leaders of the three nations—United States, Great Britain and France.

President Roosevelt and Edouard Herrio, French envoy, last night engaged in an exhaustive discussion of disarmament at their White House meeting.

Would Check Aggressors.

It was learned from highest sources that Mr. Roosevelt is "searching sincerely for the means of associating the United States" with international efforts to check aggressor nations.

The President also was represented as being greatly desirous of seeing the establishment of a permanent international supervision of armaments as part of the projected disarmament treaty.

This supervision, in the President's view, should not be merely occasional, but permanent in character and mobile, that is, competent to direct its investigations wherever circumstances dictate.

Disarmament and its corollary problems dominated the last hours of the White House conversations between the President, Prime Minister MacDonald and former Premier Herriot. Out of the conversations between the statesmen, the world awaits a new development of the implications in the Pact of Paris.

Mr. MacDonald is known to be acutely desirous to bring back to London, even in the last hours of his stay here, some form of agreement between the three countries which can be used to liquidate the difficulties of the disarmament conference. He is known to believe that until definite disarmament progress is made, the influence of the World Economic Conference will be considerably handicapped.

Apostle of French Security.

It might even be derived from his opinions that the holding of the economic conference should be contingent on some definite reduction

$29,000 Bandits Use Grease as Masks

Pair, With Machine Guns, Raid Bank and Hurt Woman Employe.

Globe, Ariz., April 25 (A.P.).—Two men armed with submachine guns, and with their features smeared with green grease, robbed the Valley Bank here of about $29,000 today.

A woman employe of the bank, Mrs. R. A. Morris, was beaten on the hands with a pistol butt when she grasped the door knob in an attempt to flee from the building.

Mrs. Morris, T. S. White, assistant manager, who was forced to open the vault after he entered the front door, and M. S. Holmes, teller, were locked up by the robbers.

Trio Slain, 2 Wounded By Maddened Husband

Crothersville, Ind., April 25 (A.P.). Three persons are dead and two wounded following invasion by Stanley Hammelman of the home of his estranged wife's parents here tonight. He shot every one in the house, then killed himself.

Besides Hammelman, the dead are Howard Weddle, his father-in-law, and Donna Joyce Hammelman, his 4-year-old daughter. The wounded are Mrs. Weddle and her daughter, Mary Weddle, about 15.

Borah Fails to Attend Diplomatic Conference

Members of the Senate and House Foreign Relations Committees, who must pass upon any policy agreed upon in the diplomatic conversations, last night met with President Roosevelt, former Premier Herriot of France, Prime Minister MacDonald, of Great Britain, and Prime Minister Bennett, of Canada, in a conference at the White House.

Almost every member of the two committees attended the conference. Senator Borah of Idaho, former chairman of the Senate Committee, was one of the exceptions. He gave no reason for staying away.

The occasion was described primarily as a French reception, it being the first time that official representatives of France, which defaulted on her debt payment to the United States last December, had met the representatives of the American Congress dealing with foreign affairs.

ENGLAND ENFORCES SOVIET IMPORTS BAN

Reds' Embargo Against Goods of Britain Also Becomes Effective.

London, April 25 (A.P.).—An embargo against 80 per cent of Russian imports, invoked a week ago in protest to the trial in Moscow of six British technicians on charges of sabotage, became effective at 5 p. m. today, at the closing of the British customs offices.

Vessels bringing commodities on the prohibited list were obliged to get their clearance papers passed through the customs before the closing hour.

Those which failed to do so will not be permitted to unload the banned products.

Goods in this category arriving after tonight will not be admitted, but will have to be sent back to Russia or disposed of elsewhere.

The king proclaimed the embargo on April 19, and a week of grace, which expired tonight, was given so that goods already paid for could reach here.

Meanwhile, no word has been received about the possibility that the Soviet government will commute the sentences of two British engineers now in prison, after having been convicted by a Moscow court.

British officials said the complete ban imposed by the Soviet government on British goods and vessels became effective today.

Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon told the House of Commons that he was "completely convinced the accusations against the engineers were ill-founded and that the action of his majesty's government in relation to the whole matter was entirely justified."

10 Years in Prison Given Mrs. Riley

Wife, Who Beat Divorcee in Miami Case, Gets Heavy Penalty.

Miami, Fla., April 25 (A.P.).—Mrs. Freida J. Riley today was sentenced to 10 years in the State Penitentiary for attacking Mrs. Adelaide Doing Stork, divorced wife of Clinton Warner Stork, of Baltimore, here last December. Judge E. C. Collins overruled defense motion for a new trial.

Sentence upon Bernard Riley, Mrs. Riley's son, who was convicted with her, was held in suspension, upon his promise of good behavior. Jimmy Duffy, third defendant, was sentenced to seven years.

Mrs. Stork was not in the courtroom today. She and Bart A. Riley, husband of the defendant, were the principal State witnesses. Testimony during the trial showed Riley was present in Mrs. Stork's apartment when the attack occurred.

Omission of Debt Payment to U. S. Is Explained.

BENNETT IS NEW GUEST

June Annuities May Wait Until After World Parley.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

President Roosevelt climaxed the visit of British Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald last night by presenting his house guest, together with Canadian Prime Minister Richard Bedford Bennett and former French Premier Edouard Herriot to the members of the House and Senate Foreign Relations Committees. The three world statesmen mingled with the congressional leaders who will be called upon to approve the formal agreements growing out of their presence in this country.

Prime Minister MacDonald spent his last day in Washington in conference with the President on the aspects of the intergovernmental debt problem, particularly as it affects the two countries. The action of the British Chancellor of the Exchequer in omitting any provision for the payment of the British debt to the United States this June 15 was explained to the President by the Prime Minister. No provision was made in the previous budgetary figures for the American payment and still England paid $95,550,000 as provided in her bond.

Statement Renews Hope.

The outcome of the conversations yesterday was a communique which infused a ray of hope into what had seemed to be a cloud of pessimism. The official statement declared that both statesmen had "faced the realities and the obligations" and that as a result there was a "clearer understanding of the situation affecting the two countries."

The two statesmen in their joint statement decried that any definitive settlement is under way. The language of the document was almost eloquent in declaring "It is the simple truth that thus far only preliminary explorations of many different routes have been commenced."

The debt conversations will continue after the Prime Minister has returned to London through direct diplomatic exchanges.

The imminence of the June 15 debt payment with its assessment on both France and Great Britain for very considerable payments on account of their intergovernmental debts has been suggested by several authorities as necessitating some action by the President to hold over the payment of these debts until after the World Economic Conference.

Look for Concession.

France particularly is anxious to have some agreement made with the President along these lines, even before any definite assurances are given the President with regard that portion of the French debt which is even now in default. The French chamber, according to the sentiment in the entourage of M. Herriot, is still definitely and adamantly against any payment of this deferred payment.

The feeling is that perhaps the payment can be made if there is forthcoming from the White House some concession on the problem involved in the next payment. Since a naval building holiday has frequently been observed by the Great

(Associated Press.)

The administration's mighty program for developing the Tennessee River Basin yesterday was made ready for early Senate consideration by an overpowering House majority.

The count was 306 to 91 on passage of the Hill version of the President's Muscle Shoals plan. Crushed under the majority in which 17 Republicans and all 5 Farmer-Laborites joined were 89 Republicans and 2 Democrats.

But before the final ballot, the House voted 326 to 68 against a motion by Rankin (Democrat), Mississippi, to return the Hill bill to the Military Committee, with instructions that the Norris draft of the vast Tennessee project be substituted.

This measure—drawn by Senator Norris, the Nebraska independent who has fought a dozen years for Government operation of its $140,000,000 shoals investment—was the one scheduled for Senate consideration.

Already approved by the Agriculture Committee, Norris hoped to win for his bill a Senate right of way immediately after farm relief action. His plan was to substitute his own for the House bill, which he believes would "seriously interfere with the building of transmission lines, because it is hedged with red tape."

Swift Senate approval was forecast. Half a dozen Norris Muscle Shoals bills have been passed by the Senate in recent years, so a prolonged discussion was not expected. The procedure in prospect would throw into conference committees the task of reconciling the Hill and Norris bills.

Just which text the President prefers for his program was disputed. Rankin circularized the members of the House with a statement that "the Hill bill is unsatisfactory" and "the provisions of the Norris bill have the approval of the President."

This statement was questioned by Chairman McSwain of the Military Committee, which wrote the Hill bill. He insisted that the President had intrusted himself and Norris to work out a bill; that the Chief Executive had not written a line of either.

The chief point of controversy between the two measures dealt with the electric power section. The Norris bill would authorize the Government corporation operating the shoals plants to construct, lease or build transmission lines.

The Hill bill would have the corporation first endeavor to enter into contracts with private power companies for the distribution and resale of its electricity before acquiring or building lines and would further limit power distribution to areas within a 400-mile radius of the generating point.

ARMS CUTS LINKED TO ECONOMIC PARLEY

in world armaments which will enable the budget makers of the various countries to mark down radical reductions in their expenses and thus approach the economic conference with a national budget less subject to the fluctuating anxieties of political uneasiness.

Some form of consultative pact is believed to be the panacea that the three statesmen have in mind. However, their conceptions of the consultative pact differ as do their own countries. M. Harriot, famed apostle of French security, would like to see a consultative pact that would place France in the protected shelter of military action in case of aggression.

President Discreetly Silent.

This represents the broadest possible interpretation and may be dismissed as impossible of attainment with the President. Mr. MacDonald's own conception of the pact would be based partly on his disarmament theories and partly on his four-power-pact idea which has met with scant encouragement in France. The President has maintained a discreet silence on the position of this Government in the matter, but yesterday Secretary of State Cordell Hull conceded that some sort of consultative pact might be decided on by this Government. At the present time, however, the Secretary added, there has been no definite ideas advanced for clothing the idea with any semblance of fact.

Mr. Hull yesterday declared that the political platforms of both parties provide for consultation between the nations. The way to this new concept of the Kellogg pact was shown by former Secretary of State Stimson in his treatment of the Leticia question involving both Peru and Colombia.

At that time he called on all nations of the Kellogg-Briand pact to consult among themselves as to their views on averting the impending conflict between the two nations. The analogy was obviously directed at Japan, but even the Japanese ambassador acted in the manner and offered the cooperation of the Japanese government in solving the problem.

Another Version Expected.

Some developments of this same idea is now being threshed out by the three statesmen here. M. Herriot in his first meeting with President Roosevelt on Monday night explained to him France's position with regard to her neighbors, and particularly with Germany, restive under the stringent requirements of the Treaty of Versailles and anxious to rearm. Such an ation would undoubtedly provoke a general revision of the London and Washington Treaties, regarding naval parity and would bring considerable more uneasiness into the national policy of the French government at any meeting of the disarmament conference.

However, to all these representations the President has turned a polite and an attentive ear, but he has not yet indicated his possible reaction to any of the proposals that have been made to him. The Italian delegation, under the guidance of Finance Minister Guido Jung, is now on the water and it is believed that the Italian delegation will bring another version of the consultative pact idea, an Italian version that takes into consideration revision of treaties and a general revamping of the map of Europe.

No definite decision will therefore be made on any phase of the consultative pact idea until all the ideas have been presented and the President has had an opportunity of considering them with the leaders of Congress.

Partiality to Girls in U. S. Noted by Miss MacDonald

England Differs in Spoiling Boys, She Says in Final Press Conference; Lauds Secretary Perkins After Visit to Hearing at Capitol.

By AYLLA POE WILSON.

The English people have long been politically minded with the working man always using his two arms, his political arm and his industrial arm to express himself, Miss Isbel MacDonald, daughter of the Prime Minister of Great Britain, told newspaper women gathered for her last press conference in Mrs. Roosevelt's family living room in the White House yesterday.

Miss MacDonald said that she herself has no ambition to go to Parliament, as she is interested in local government and finds much to do as a member of the London County Council. Miss MacDonald described herself as a "home body" and a good housewife. She added that the housewives make good members of the committees of the London County Council and show a high rate of efficiency. She reiterated her statement of several days ago that married women do not, as a general rule, carry on their professions after marriage and that they were usually content to stay at home.

She pointed out the desirability of every woman doing some work for the good of the Nation or society out of the home in order that she not become narrow. Furthermore, she asserted, that there is a growing tendency among the young people of Great Britain to seek a career, especially the young girls who want to show their independence that way.

Miss MacDonald said that she had no definite views on prohibition, although she did not drink herself, but did not see why others should not if they so desired. She declared that England has not the problems with its young people in this regard prevalent in this country.

England spoils her boys and America spoils her girls, the young London County Council member said. In England advantages are given to the boys of the family and in this country advantages are given to the girls. She said, with a merry twinkle in her eyes, that English girls do not mind "running about" after men.

Miss MacDonald decried any prejudice against Americans by her countrywomen, but commented on the advantages of wider acquaintance with the thinking type of women they had enjoyed in the last few years.

In commenting on the happenings at the Labor Committee hearings which she attended with Mrs. Roosevelt and Secretary of Labor Perkins, Miss MacDonald praised the woman Cabinet member for her manner of answering the questions.

In conclusion Miss MacDonald said that she had not noted much change in the American people since her last visit to this country.

Mrs. Roosevelt was present at the interview.

HEARTENING PROGRESS NOTED AS M'DONALD ENDS TALKS

Powers during the discussion of naval disarmament, it is argued that President Roosevelt may very properly ask Congress to suspend the payment of the June annuities until after the World Economic Conference.

The prime minister will leave behind him his two most effecient experts in fiduciary and financial matters, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, a dour taciturn Scotsman and financial expert of the treasury, and Arnold E. Overton, of the British Board of Trade. They will stay on here until Friday to work out some definite agreement on the stabilizatoin of the British pound and the American dollar. At the present time the American and British experts are at considerable variance over the stabilization figure at which the two moneys can be pegged. Yesterday the dollar in London was quoted at $3.91, while the British experts here were trying to fix its value in relation to the pound at as low as $3.50.

Bennett Moves in Today.

The American experts, headed by Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley, were occupied almost all day in conference with the technicians of the two countries; they spent the morning going over the economic phases of Franco-American problems with the French experts at the Department of State and then returned to the White House in the afternoon to review the technical situation presented by the stabilization of their respective monetary units.

Prime Minister Bennett will move into the White House today after the departure of Mr. MacDonald. He was occupied most of yesterday in reviewing the potentialities of closer trade agreements with this country, and will concentrate most of his conversations here toward that end. He decried the possibility that the Ottowa agreements might be an impediment to such Canadian and American trade relations.

He said:

"These Ottawa agreements do not affect our trading potentialities, as far as this country is concerned. They do not stand in the way of trade arrangements being made between Canada and the United States."

Mr. Bennett is anxious to have the importance of such agreement stressed here. Imperative action is necessary, he declared.

"We must not pause to balance too carefully each item of national profit and loss. We must act boldly and unselfishly. We have reached a point where it is certain nothing but united action can avert world disaster. In debating the means we must not lose sight of the common ends. Otherwise we will be certain witnesses of the wreck of our civilization."

Mr. Bennett was able to expound his personal beliefs on the Canadian and American trade problems last night with the members of the Senate and Congress who were present at the White House. The fiscal aspects of the forthcoming negotiations between Canada and the United States were not lost sight of in the conversations. Canada, with her dollar, is technically as influenced by the action of the American financial authorities as any ultimate stabilization of the pound sterling.

Final decision on the stabilization theories of both the American and British experts will be held in abeyance until the date of the London Economic Conference has been fixed. However, this conference in turn seems to be affected by the outcome of the disarmament negotations soon to enter upon their vital phase in Geneva.

It is believed in some quarters that the nub of the entire international machine is the Disarmament Conference and its satisfactory liquidation of the problems affecting the budgetary problems of every nation.

Joint Statement Issued On British War Debt

During the day the Prime Minister and the President have discussed the problems of the debt of the British government to the United States Government. Both have faced the realities and the obligations and both believe that as a result there is laid the basis of a clearer understanding of the situation affecting the two Nations.

It would be wholly misleading to intimate that any plan or any settlement is under way. It is the simple truth that thus far only preliminary explorations of many different routes have been commenced. The point to be emphasized is that, with the most friendly spirit, progress is being made. After the Prime Minister's departure, these conversations can well continue in London and Washington.

Barnett in Court In $200,000 Quest

U. S. Moves to Delete Part of Wife's Answer to Petition.

Accompanied by his wife and her daughter, Jackson Barnett, full blooded Indian, whose Oklahoma oil lands made him the wealthiest Indian in the United States, yesterday appeared in District Supreme Court as a litigant in the Government's efforts to regain for him a $200,000 trust fund and $75,000 in interest.

Barnett gave his wife $200,000 in Liberty Bonds and she deposited them here in the Riggs National Bank under a trust agreement. The Government contends the money should be restored to Barnett.

The fund has been in the bank since 1923. The trial will last several weeks, attorneys estimated. The only action yesterday was a motion by the Government to strike out parts of Mrs. Barnett's answer to the petition. Court will convene at 11 a. m. today.

A lively fist fight between two prominent members of the District bar, John P. Mullen and William J. Shea, enlivened the otherwise drab events of the courthouse yesterday morning when the two participants removed their troubles to Sixth street, just outside the building, and settled their troubles.

An argument over a client is said to have ignited a spark that caused the trouble. The pair got into a heated argument in the building and then adjourned to the curb, where eyewitnesses said that Mr. Shea struck Mr. Mullen in the face and knocked him down.

That ended the engagement, for Mr. Shea walked away and Mr. Mullen went inside the building to wash away the blood that was streaming from his nose.

CITIES SERVICE DEAL IN 1929 CRASH BARED

(Associated Press.)

Testimony that during the stock market crash of October, 1929, the Cities Service Securities Co. spent more than $128,000,000 purchasing common stock of its parent, the Cities Service Co., was presented to the Federal Trade Commission yesterday by Thomas W. Mitchell, the commission's economist-examiner.

This sum bought 2,372,101 shares of Cities Service, he said, "but, as these amounted only to about two-fifths of the total quantity of that stock thrown into the market, they were not sufficient to uphold the market price, which broke to a low of $20 on October 29."

The testimony was given as hearings opened on the securities company marketing and trading agency set up in 1927 by Henry L. Doherty & Co. The securities concern was owned wholly by the Cities Service Co.

Traded in Own Stock.

Mitchell said the securities company's market activities constituted "an outstanding example of what is believed to be a general practice in modern finance and stock market control." He added it had far-reaching effects upon the welfare of the investor and the entire public.

The principal function of the securities company, he said, was to provide a ready resale market for Cities Service securities, facilitate marketing and supervise the market for these stocks.

"Inasmuch as the securities company is wholly owned by Cities Service Co., its performance of this function with reference to the parent company's stock virtually amounts to Cities Service Co.'s trading in its own stock," Mitchell said. "Such activity is regarded with disfavor by the governing body of the New York Stock Exchange."

Listed on Curb.

The Cities Service issues are listed on the New York Curb, he pointed out.

Responding to questions by Robert E. Healy, the commission's chief counsel, Mitchell said he believed the voluminous report he had prepared on the company's affairs "accurately reproduced and reflected" the company's operations.

"The securities company, through Henry L. Doherty & Co., as agent," Mitchell testified, "functioned, to the extent of its market purchases, very much like a broker who received from customers orders to purchase certain designated securities in specified quantities and then purchased on the exchange or over the counter the securities with which to fill the orders."

Urge to Speculation.

Such market activities Mitchell said, might be carried on in such volume "as to induce a general orgy of speculation in which stock prices go to absurd heights, from which they must inevitably crash to the great injury not only of the speculators but of the entire Nation."

In connection with Mitchell's report and the summary of it, counsel for the securities company issued a statement saying:

"All the buying the Cities Service Securities Co. did on the Curb Exchange was solely for the filling of orders.

"It was the public that was buying. • • • The reason the securities company bought on the curb was because it had to buy on the market in which stockholders chose to sell their shares."

Youth Sentenced For Manslaughter

Boy Killed Elder Brother After Row en Route From Pasture.

Tacoma, Wash., April 25 (A.P.).—Robert Templeman, 15, who officers said, shot and killed his brother, Oliver, 20, during a quarrel, was given an indeterminate sentence in the State training school at a juvenile court hearing here today.

The youth, a high school sophomore, was charged with manslaughter. He was taken to the training school at Chehalis late today.

Officers said Robert told them he and his brother quarreled while driving cows home from the pasture and that he went into his parents' home, obtained a revolver, returned to the yard and shot his brother in the head.

Opposition to the original proposal to retire automatically 30-year employes yesterday spread to the Senate, where Senator James F. Byrnes (Democrat), South Carolina, and Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), New York, opposed the compulsory nature of the plan. Both indicated their preference for optional retirement features.

James O. Roberts, solicitor for the Veterans' Administration, testified briefly before the House Appropriations group on a proposal to stop payment of insurance to beneficiaries of draft evaders who died in prison camps.

RESERVE BANKS SEE INCREASED ACTIVITY

Board Says Gold Embargo Helped Commodity and Security Markets.

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Reserve Board in a summary of general business conditions for March and April said yesterday there was increased activity in commodity and security markets after the issuance of licenses for export of gold had been suspended.

Production and distribution of commodities, which declined during the latter part of February and the early part of March, increased after the middle of the month and the return flow of currency which began with the reopening of banks on March 13, continued in April.

Production at factories and mines decreased from February to March, contrary to seasonal tendency, and the board's index declined 4 per cent, to 60 per cent. The low level of 58 per cent was established in July, 1932.

The report said there was a decline from 20 per cent to 15 per cent of capacity in steel mill activity from February to March, followed by an increase to more than 20 per cent for April. In the automobile industry, where there was a sharp contraction in output when the banks were closed, there was a rapid increase after their reopening. From February to March, production in food and cotton textile industries showed little change, but activity in the woolen industry declined sharply, and there was reduction in daily average output at shoe mills.

The volume of factory employment and pay rolls showed a considerable drop from the middle of February to the middle of March, and wholesale prices of leading commodities fluctuated widely during March and the first three weeks of April.

Byrd Quits Office In Economy Body

Admiral, Still Interested in League, Turns to Personal Business.

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—The resignation of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd as chairman of the National Economy League was submitted at a meeting of the league's executive committee today.

His reason for resigning, he said, was that he had served half a year longer than he had agreed to serve and that personal affairs which he had neglected for nearly a year made it imperative that he give less time to the league. He will continue, however, to take an active interest in the organization's work as a member of the advisory council and of the executive committee.

Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois was made a member of the advisory council, the other members of which are Elihu Root, Alfred E. Smith, Newton D. Baker and Admiral William S. Sims.

Takoma Park Bank Banquet Is Enjoyed

Fast Progress of Building Results in Supporters Celebrating.

Several hundred persons attended the banquet given stockholders and friends of the Citizens Bank of Takoma Park last night at the Presbyterian Church in Takoma Park, Md., in celebration of the near completion of the new bank building.

Dr. H. H. Votaw acted as toastmaster, and the principal speakers included L. S. Cannon, president of the bank; Peter Remsen, chairman of the bank building committee, and L. V. Lampson, vice president of the bank.

It was declared by the speakers that the Citizens Bank was in the best condition of any bank in the State of Maryland, and could pay its depositors on 24-hours notice. The bank was one of the first in the State to open on a 100 per cent basis after the holiday.

experience demonstrates that in at least 50 per cent of cases the extension of the disease process at the time of operation is too advanced."

Dr. Galdston was the academy's observer at the operation, as he was at the operation on the Siamese King.

If Helen recovers, as the doctors expect her to, she will be out of the hospital in a week or ten days, and in about a month her eye socket will have healed and a blue glass eye will take the place of the one she lost.

Meanwhile, only her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Vasco, will be permitted to see her. So vexed did they become earlier this month at the attention the case attracted that at one time they barricaded their home against outsiders and threatened to pour boiling water upon any one who approached. Later they secretly went away from their home at Hastings-on-Hudson for a while.

A general anesthetic, ether, was used during the operation and the little girl, apparently frightened, cried considerably. Her parents were on hand to console her afterward.

HOUSE LABOR GROUP STUDIES BLACK BILL

Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss MacDonald Present as Plan Is Analyzed.

(Associated Press.)

A point-by-point study of the plan to improve business by telling industry how long it shall work its employes and how much it shall pay them was begun yesterday by the House Labor Committee with assurances from Secretary Perkins that the administration looks "sympathetically" upon the proposals.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Isbbel MacDonald, the British Prime Minister's daughter, always interested in labor questions, were among the large group of intent spectators.

Miss Perkins gave the committee a review of business conditions from 1927 to 1932 and said:

"The purpose of this bill is to increase employment and the amount of goods going into interstate commerce."

Sketches Provisions.

Then in general terms she sketched its provisions: To forbid interstate transportation of goods made by workers on the job more than six hours a day or 30 hours a week; to establish Federal boards which would fix minimum wages for specified kinds of work; to permit the Secretary of Labor to order a particular manufacturing establishment to operate its plant only a certain number of hours a week.

The latter, she said, had been urged upon her by producers as necessary, on the ground that it could be used to keep "excessively long hours of operation" by one plant from causing "overproduction or unfair competition."

Miss Perkins agreed that a reduction of the hours of labor a week might bring pay cuts. But the Federal minimum wage boards under her bill, she testified, could decide whether these reductions would result in less than enough to maintain "a just and reasonable standard of living."

"Sympathetic" View Seen.

If the 30-hour-week bill included the minimum wage and production control features, Miss Perkins said, she believed "the administration would be sympathetic" toward it as it is "sympathetic" toward the general idea of a 30-hour week.

After she finished, Meyer Jacobstein, a former member of Congress and now president of the First National Bank of Rochester, N. Y., told the committee that "this bill doesn't go far enough."

"As it now is, you would have 300 separate boards—one for each industry—working on hours and 500 to 1,000 working on wages with nothing to coordinate their activities," said Jacobstein, a former teacher of economics in Rochester University. "You need a national board to supervise the individual boards."

Prompt Action Urged.

Jacobstein remarked that unless something is done soon for industry "your honeymoon here in Washington is going to be over with."

Elmer E. Chase, of San Jose, Calif., representing canners, asked that the bill be made more elastic to permit seasonal businesses to continue profitable operation. Miss Perkins' idea of allowing 40-hour work weeks for 10 weeks under extraordinary circumstances, he said, would not be enough, since canners operate at full tilt for four months a year.

The committee decided to hold further hearings.

BUSCH AND SERKIN PLAY BRILLIANTLY

Two novae moved into the zenith of Washington's musical firmament last evening as Adolf Busch and Rudolf Serkin made their first American appearance in a program of sonatas for violin and piano, the last concert of the Library of Congress Festival of Chamber Music under the auspices of the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge Foundation.

A heavy silence of awe and wonderment fell over the crowded auditorium as Violinist Busch drew the first entrancing notes of Bach's second version of the "Sonata in G," and continued through the entire six movements, played after the original manuscript in the State Library at Berlin. But as the last note issued, tumultuous applause spontaneously broke loose from the rapt listeners, and the players were called back for bow after bow.

Applause Increases.

The reception given the opening number was as nothing compared to that offered at the conclusion of Max Reger's "Sonata in E Minor, Op. 122," a magnificent work in four movements.

The third and concluding number was Beethoven's "Sonata in E Flat, Op. 12, No 3" and what had happened up to that time was completely eclipsed here! for, while the Bach and Reger works seemed to be demonstrations of the artists' technical skill more than works of beauty and art, in this final number tonal beauty joined hands with masterful virtuosity to produce presentation that will long be remembered.

Audience Is Delighted.

Of the consummate musicianship of Messrs. Busch and Serkin, little need be said, for when any audience has to be "ejected" for its insistent applause and earnest appeals for "More! More!" that is indeed more eloquent testimony of success—that the artists reached the hearts of their listeners—than is possible to be set down in printer's ink. Superlatives here are valueless; these men are true artists in every sense of the word. May they soon return!

W. A. WHITNEY.

An audience that indorsed unanimously the verdict of the jury in awarding the 1932 Elisabeth Sprague Coolidge prize to Bohuslav Martinu for his string quartet heard with delight and complete enjoyment the first public presentation of that enchanting composition at yesterday morning's concert of the Chamber Music Festival series in the Library of Congress Auditorium.

Vivid Interpretation.

The string sextet was admirably played by the Kroll Sextet, of New York, with the following master musicians in the aggregation: Violins, William Kroll and Nicolai Berezowsku; violas, Leon Barzin and David Sackson, and violioncello, Milton Prinz and Ossip Giskin. These men played the new composition with understanding, vividness of interpretation and thorough delineation of its musical values.

Martinu's String Sextet is in three movements, lento, andantino and allegretto. It shows the influence of the modern trend in musical art but had a basic soundness not always to be found in modern composers.

The Laurent Wind Quintet, of Boston, Georges Laurent, flutist; Fernand Gillet, oboe; Victor Polatschek, clarinet; Abdon Laus, bassoon, and George Boetticher, French horn, gave a delightful rendition of Gustave Strube's ever lovely "Quintet Wind Instruments." The Kroll Sextet was heard again in Arnold Schonbery's "Verklarte Nacht," after the poem by Richard Dehmel, which it played with distinction and with memorable phrasing.

The board elected Mr. Noyes, Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times; Paul Patterson, Baltimore Sun; Robert McLean, Philadelphia Bulletin, and Richard Hooker, Springfield Republican, members of the executive committee.

The forty-seventh annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers Association opened at the Waldorf-Astoria today with a round table discussion by executives of newspapers having less than 50,000 circulation.

E. H. Harris, of the Richmond, Ind., Palladium, who is secretary of the association, presided and between 200 and 300 executives participated. Economy was emphasized in the discussion.

The principal sessions of the convention will begin tomorrow.

Mutual Problems Disscused.

The activity of newspapers and newspapermen is news in which the public is interested, Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the School of Journalism, Columbia University, told the Associated Press Managing Editors Association today.

"If this was a gathering of physicians, lawyers or educators, you would cover the proceedings for your newspapers, and I believe there is just as much interest in what you as newspapermen are doing."

Mutual problems of managing editors representing more than 100 newspapers throughout the Nation were discussed and a committee was chosen to arrange a program for next year's session. Those named were Roy Roberts, of the Kansas City Star; Oliver Kuhn, of the Washington Star; Edwin L. James, of the New York Times; Roy J. Dunlap, of the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press, and J. P. Miller, of the Savannah Press.

WISCONSIN VOTES WET RATIFICATION

Fourteen Men and Woman Meet at Madison for Formal Repeal Ballot.

Madison, Wis., April 25 (A.P.).—Delegates to Wisconsin's constitutional convention, 14 men and 1 woman, held up business of the Legislature at the Capitol today while they cast Wisconsin's vote in favor of repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The vote was unanimous, a formal ratification of the will of Wisconsin citizens who on April 4 elected a solid repealist delegation to the convention by a vote of 650,000 to 140,000.

The convention met in the Assembly chamber, legislators clearing three rows of seats in front for delegates. The chamber was crowded with lawmakers and spectators, some of whom sang "How Dry I Am" as delegates entered. The playful mood passed with the appearance of Chief Justice Marvin Rosenberry of the State Supreme Court, who administered the oath to the delegates. Charles E. Broughton, of Sheboygan, a delegate and Democratic national committeeman, was chosen chairman of the convention. There was an address by Gov. A. G. Schmedeman, who termed the gathering "a happy occasion, giving partial fulfillment to the wishes of the people of Wisconsin."

The convention then proceeded without discussion to its single piece of business, the vote on a simple resolution stating that Wisconsin ratifies the proposed twenty-first amendment to the Federal Constitution submitted to it by Congress. The convention then presented copies of the resolution to Secretary of State Theodore Dammann for transmission to Washington, and its business was concluded.

Mrs. Gertrude Bowler, of Sheboygan, national Democratic committeewoman, was the only feminine delegate.

Wisconsin, following Michigan, was the second State to ratify repeal of Federal prohibition. To become effective, the amendment must be ratified by 34 more States.

FIRST LADY SPEAKS TO 1812 DAUGHTERS

She Says Persistence and Vision Can Remedy All U. S. Difficulties.

All patriotic societies were urged to concentrate on a program for the promotion of world peace by Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, speaking last night at the annual dinner of the National Society of the United Daughters of 1812 at the Willard Hotel.

In a brief address of welcome to the society, the First Lady urged the organization to give their strength to the prevention of war and called upon members to study international affairs in the interest of permanent peace.

Referring to national affairs, Mrs. Roosevelt said, "In the past many nations have faced the same situation as the United States is now facing and by persistent effort and clear-sightedness have overcome their difficulties."

Autographs Notebooks.

Forced to leave the banquet because of other engagements, the gracious wife of the President stopped to autograph the note books of newspaperwomen.

Other addresses of welcome were given by Mrs. John Laidlaw Buel, president of the Daughters of the American Colonists, and Mrs. Russell William Magna, president of the D. A. R.

Following dinner, the history of the United States from 1874 to 1933 was colorfully presented in music and songs by a group of talented Washingtonians under the direction of Gertrude Lyons, president of the District of Columbia Federation of Music Clubs.

Urges National Defense.

Speaking before the afternoon session, Mrs. Mary Logan Tucker, second vice president and chairman of the national defense committee, urged the organization to campaign for adequate national defense, the nonrecognition of Russia and maintenance of present immigration laws.

Resolutions to punish advocacy of revolution by violence, the indorsement of the national defense act, opposing fundamental change in the immigration act of 1924 and the recognition of Russia were unanimously adopted during the afternoon session.

Fleet Cut Scored.

Mrs. Frederick Millspaugh, legislative chairman, opposed bills introduced in Congress letting down the naturalization laws and urged the society to further acquaint themselves with the affairs of the Nation.

Invited as a guest speaker before the organization, Miss Clara W. McQuown, opposed reduction of funds for the Merchant Marine and stressed its importance to the Navy in time of war.

She termed the proposed reductions the efforts of foreign trade interests to recapture the 40 per cent of the overseas freight traffic now carried by the American Merchant Marine.

Election Due Today.

During the afternoon session the New York State delegation was awarded the Weinmann trophy for presenting the best reports during the year. The Georgia delegation was awarded the Henry J. Carr flag for obtaining the greatest number of members during the year. The pageant contest was won by Miss Lorene McNiff, of Corona, S. Dak., and Miss Grace Owen, of La Jolla, Calif. Both are high school girls.

Mrs. Robert J. Johnston, of Humboldt, Iowa, president national, presided at both the afternoon and evening session.

The election and installation of national officers will take place today.

Texas Legislature Directs Quiz of Brawl Over Oil Bill

Member, in Hospital, Tells of Being Attacked in Hotel Lobby After Criticism on His Opposition to Regulatory Measure.

Austin, Tex., April 25 (A.P.).—Both houses of the Texas Legislature today directed the appointment of committees to investigate a fight in an Austin hotel lobb, last night in which Representative Gordon Burns, of Huntsville, was severely injured.

The action was preceded by discussion in which the purported activities of "major oil companies" in support of a new oil regulatory bill passed by the House yesterday were denounced. Burns was one of the leading opponents of the bill.

Burns, under treatment in a hospital, said he had returned to his hotel about 11:30 p. m. when he met Charles F. Roeser, of Fort Worth, president of the Texas Oil & Gas Conservation Association. Burns said Roeser engaged him in conversation during which the House debate concerning establishment of a new commission to administer oil and gas conservation was discussed.

The legislator said he and Roeser started to fight and that while he (Burns) was on the floor others kicked him.

Roeser remained in his hotel room today with a bruised eye. He said it was "a most regrettable and unfortunate thing." He declared the fight started from "pure kidding." Roeser described it as "more a wrestling match on the floor than a fight."

Representative T. H. McGregor, of Austin, author of the motion in the House calling for an investigation, said it was reported a member of the House had been "brutally assaulted" for statements made on the floor.

The Senate Committee was authorized to investigate the political activities of oil companies insofar as they concern State legislation.

Senator Grady Woodruff, of Decatur, was author of the Senate motion. He asserted threats had been made against him and his secretary unless he desisted in his opposition to the oil commission bill.

Kilgore, Tex., April 25 (A.P.).—As additional major companies slashed the price of east Texas crude oil to 10 cents a barrel, Lon A. Smith, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, charged today the reductions were made largely in an effort to displace the commission's control over the turbulent field.

REED AND HARRISON CLASH IN SENATE OVER INFLATION

of the silver amendment. One amendment already has been introduced, and at least three others are in various stages of preparation. Until all of these can be disposed of, no final action on the inflation measure can be taken.

Senator Carter Glass threw an oblique dart at the whole theory of controlled inflation yesterday by comparing America's new criminal statute against gold hoarding with the laws of the French revolutionary regime which prescribed the guillotine for those who discriminated against the fiat money of the day. The fiery Virginian did not indicate, however, that he would vote against the bill.

Criticism by Wheeler.

Reports that Senator Glass had received assurances from the President that the Glass banking bill would be enacted promptly after the inflation measure lacked confirmation in official quarters. So, too, did a report at the Justice Department that the President would not use the inflationary powers, or the authority to alter the gold content of the dollar, save to avert national disaster should the world economic conference fail.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, author of the silver amendment, expressed the opinion in debate that "Congress is going entirely too far in granting powers to the Executive," but was unable to suggest any other way of effectively approaching the existing international situation.

Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, led the opposition with a three-hour review of inflation history, and Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, responded for the expansionists with a rollicking tirade against "Mellon, Mills and Reed." The Mississippian approached the grave problem of inflation with Falstaffian wit and gesture, and turned many a fine rapier against the tender hide of his Republican adversaries. His clowning amused the crowded galleries immensely, and it was hardly observed beyond a small circle on the floor that the senator did not discuss the provisions of the bill before the chamber.

Reed and Norris.

In response to a challenge from Senator Reed to discuss the Democratic platform pledge for sound money, and the repeated statements by Mr. Roosevelt during the campaign that he would adhere to that party pledge, Senator Harrison reminded the Senate triumphantly—

"There's nothing in here that isn't sound money!"

At one point in the debate Senators Reed and Norris all but fell into a beautiful embrace in voicing their agreement upon the necessity of doing something to raise commodity prices. Senator Norris thought inflation was the route, while Senator Reed explained his only objection was to "the perfectly poisonous way you want to do it in this bill."

The only way to restore genuine prosperity, he added, was for the President to announce to the world in unequivocal terms that there would be no tampering with the currency.

Refers to "Old Trick."

"The power for which President Roosevelt is asking is without any precedent in our governmental history," Senator Reed said. He cited Thomas Jefferson's warning that in all matters of government even the most trustworthy officials should be anchored to law: "In questions of power then let no more be heard of confidence in man, but bind him down from mischief by the chain of the Constitution," Senator Reed quoted his Democratic mentor as having said in the Kentucky Resolutions.

Reed cited three direct allusions to sound money in Mr. Roosevelt's campaign, but rounded off the review with the conclusions: "Debasing the metallic content of the coinage of a country is an old trick practiced by most of the despots in history."

Senator Reed also cited a statement by Speaker Rainey in the House last May to the effect that inflation was nothing but sheer folly. In a report on the Patman bonus inflation last session Mr. Rainey had said: "There may be some excuse for impoverished Europeah nations, emerging from the World War, to depreciate their currencies with such disastrous results to themselves, but with their example staring us in the fact it is incomprehensible to me that this proposition can be seriously entertained in this country."

Jibe at Rainey.

Turning then to face Vice President Garner, Senator Reed made the eloquent supplication: "Oh, Mr. President, can you not induce Speaker Rainey to go down to the White House and say that to Mr. Roosevelt this afternoon? Can you not induce him to say that again to the country? He made it so clear in this report that he filed last May on the Patman bill."

After reading the Democratic platform pledge for sound money, Senator Reed said the Thomas proposal involved not only an experiment in inflation, "but it provides for every variety of unsound money which the wit of man has ever devised."

HULL ASKED TO LIFT EXAMINATIONS' BAN

Foreign Service Students to Present Petitions for Holding Quiz.

Petitions asking the State Department to reconsider its cancellation of the foreign service examinations scheduled for this fall will be presented to the department today by students of various foreign service schools in the country, it was learned last night.

It is expected that about 200 signatures will be appended to the petitions. Local schools which will request holding of the examinations include those of Georgetown University, George Washington University and the Washington Diplomatic and Consular Institute. Students of the Princeton University School of Government may also present a petition.

It is understood that the State Department will be asked to restore the examinations for two reasons. One is that the students have spent time and money in preparation and that cancellation will cause a complete loss. The petitions will also point out that a certificate of passage of the examination would help obtain employment in private business.

It is understood that the cancellation order was signed yesterday by Secretary Hull, although no official announcement has been made. It was not learned yesterday whether or not the examinations would be held later than their scheduled date or whether they will be indefinitely postponed.

Bandit Gets $13,000 In Detroit Robbery

Detroit, April 25 (A.P.).—A bespectacled and well-dressed bandit held up an employe of the Associates Investment Co., as he entered a garage on Woodward avenue today, obtaining $5,000 in cash and checks amounting to $8,000.

The employe, Morris B. Howard, en route from the company offices to a bank, entered the garage where his automobile was parked, accompanied by Robert Higbie, jr., another employe. As the two were about to step into the automobile, the man ordered them into the car at the point of a pistol, and took the handbag containing the money.

and justice," said he proposed directly to abolish the office, because impeachment proceedings invariably move slow and tardily.

Although this morning's meeting of the House Judiciary Committee was called to consider routine business, and Chairman Hatton W. Sumners said he had not been officially advised of the Dies and Smith proposals, Representative Dies said he was told he would be given an opportunity to argue his resolution.

Representative Smith yesterday informally discussed his plans with members of the Virginia delegation before beginning the draft of his impeachment resolution. He declared Lowell's action was an insult to the people of Virginia, contending he had no right to speculate on what might happen when Crawford went to trial in Virginia.

"There is a strong sentiment in the House for action against the Massachusetts judge," Smith said.

"Under Judge Lowell's theory no woman as well as no Negro could be extradited to Virginia, because neither serve on juries in the State," he added. "There is no law, however, to prevent either from serving and likewise no one has an inalienable right to serve on juries."

The Dies resolution, on which a question of constitutionality may be raised, due to the privileged status of a Federal judgship, held Judge Lowell "has displayed a venom and a prejudice unparalleled in the judicial history of this or any other country, and has arrogated to himself the powers of dictatorship and ruthlessly trampled upon the laws of the Nation and has had the effrontery to attempt to justify his shocking conduct by asserting that the fact that Negroes do not serve on juries in Virginia renders any trial in that State illegal."

CURTAIN UP TODAY ON MOONEY TRIAL

Lawyers Refuse to Disclose Plans as They Jockey for Position.

San Francisco, April 25 (A.P.).—Whether the newly granted trial for Tom Mooney, opening here tomorrow, would be given a full court and jury hearing or be restricted or entirely checkmated by legal complications appeared problematical tonight. Attorneys for both sides have refused to disclose their hands.

An intimation that District Attorney Matthew A. Brady, in this case an unwilling prosecutor, might again seek dismissal of the long dormant murder indictment which formed the basis for the case was the only official hint of the State's plans. Brady said he "might possibly" make such a move.

Brady, who has been among those favoring a pardon for Mooney on the ground he was not fairly convicted of murder in the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing, made such a motion recently when Superior Judge Louis H. Ward ruled the famous prisoner was entitled to trial, but the court overruled the prosecutor.

The defense, marshaling its forces for opening the case, made a last-minute request of Brady to present in evidence the original transcript of prosecution testimony which resulted in Mooney's conviction of murder. Brady repeatedly has said he would not present any evidence in which he lacked faith.

Seeking an opportunity to discredit or impeach the State's original testimony in light of events since the conviction, defense attorneys proceeded on the theory if Brady would give them the necessary opening they could now obtain an acquittal and thus morally if not legally strengthen Mooney's long fight for a pardon.

Another Indictment Returned on Mitchell

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—A second superseding indictment was returned today by a Federal grand jury against Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank, charging him with evading payment of Federal income taxes for the years 1929 and 1930.

Mitchell pleaded not guilty and the case was placed on the trial calendar for May 8.

Sculptor and Former Pupil to Get Divorce

Hollywood, Calif., April 25 (A.P.).—Stanislaw Szukalski, 40-year-old Polish sculptor, said today he and his former Chicago debutante pupil, Helen Louise Walker, 38, whom he married ten years ago, are seeking a Mexican divorce.

She initiated the action, charging incompatibility and he signed the papers to meet the Mexican law requirements of mutual consent, he said. They have a daughter, Kalinka, 6, who will live with the mother.

Twin of Piccard Plans Sky Trip

Jean May Try Feat From Chicago for 10-Mile Stratosphere.

Chicago, April 25 (A.P.).—Brother Jean Piccard may take a flier into the great open spaces 10 miles above the earth next summer to inspect the stratosphere his twin, Prof. Auguste Piccard, explored by balloon last year.

One of the Piccard brothers is to make a balloon ascent about July 1 in the interests of science—and the Century of Progress Exposition will be the jumping off place.

The gondola carrying the stratosphere explorers will be constructed of material 33 per cent lighter than aluminum, and the gas bag will be one fifth larger than the bag that lifted Auguste Piccard in 1932 to the highest level ever attained by man. The balloonists will be able to report their position by radio, adding a safety factor.

Milwaukee, April 25 (A.P.).—Mayor Daniel W. Hoan today asked the common council to enact a general six-hour day, 30-hour week in municipal service with a commensurate reduction of 25 per cent in salaries.

The mayor in his communication cited the national and State movements for 30-hour-a-week work bills.

Annapolis Docket Includes Red Case

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 25.—Trial of cases on the criminal docket will begin in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court tomorrow, Judge Nicholas H. Green announced today.

Among the more serious cases to be disposed of will be additional indictments, charging inciting a riot against Louis Berger, secretary of the International Defense League, and five other alleged Communists who were recently convicted and given prison terms or fined for assaulting an Annapolis police officer.

Last March 16 the reputed reds staged a march on the State Capitol while the General Assembly was in session to urge passage of the bill repealing the "Jim Crow" law. The trouble occurred as the 50 demonstrators were about to leave the city in a motor bus. They heckled and later allegedly attacked Patrolman John B. Holliday. It was necessary for several other officers to quell the melee that followed.

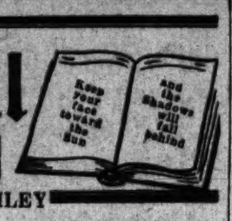
The Federal Diary



By GEORGE D. RILEY

IT didn't take the expert observation of Swarmi Fedd yesterday to predict success for The Federal Diary's first annual Federal employes golf tournament. Success was assured from receipt of the first mail and from expressions of those who have entered or are going to enter the big contest, said J. Leland Acuff, Prohibition, general chairman.

The boys in Coast and Geodetic Survey are all for the tournament, and one of the reasons is because they like Indian Spring course, where play will be held May 25.

Although the general committee has been selected, a special handicap committee will be chosen.

Mr. Acuff has named the following members to the golf committee:

Agriculture Department, L. T. Hopkins; General Accounting Office, H. S. Pope; Interior Department, D. P. Swope; Bureau of Internal Revenue, A. L. Duncan; Department of Justice, T. R. Picket; Navy Department, R. F. Lynch; Patent Office, R. A. Leighey; Bureau of Standards, J. O. Burton; Treasury Department (Income Tax Unit), Ralph Shepard; War Department, Frank G. Butler; Bureau of Mines, C. E. Julihn; Coast and Geodetic Survey, F. G. Erskine; Bureau of Internal Revenue, John Lynch; Interstate Commerce Commission, R. R. Shay; Veterans Bureau, C. P. Medley.

Indian Spring Golf Club, over which this 18-hole Federal Employes' Tournament will be played, is situated about two miles east of Silver Spring, Md., on the Sligo road. It is one of the most beautiful golf courses around Washington, being laid out on slightly rolling land, and is easily reached from any part of the city. It is a well trapped course and will try the skill of the best golfers.

Watch this column from day to day for more definite descriptions of the various holes and comment on the things to look out for which might otherwise get you in trouble.

3½ Cents Per Shrimp.

Capt. Hoover's remark that "because Government clerks get a salary cut they want everything else cut" burns me up. You're darn right we want prices cut, rents cut, restaurant prices cut, taxes cut and a few throats cut.

I never remember seeing a 5-cent vegetable in the cafeteria, unless it was mashed potatoes. Vegetable prices are high, whether canned or fresh. Today the cheapest price for vegetables was 8 cents. Soups are 8 cents, and they are not even hot. It is true that a 25-cent lunch is served, which is fairly cheap and so is the lunch sometimes. We don't always like the combination and sometimes the combination does not agree with us—so what? Desserts are high. Twice a month Mr. Hoover gets big-hearted and gives a free dessert. Well, if we know anything about it, he is going to have to throw in a free lamb chop once in a while if he wants to keep up laying it on the line at the cash register.

E. KING, Commerce.

The old problem "Is Life Worth Living?" found an affirmative answer in a study made among a number of average persons in various occupations. Their feelings, recorded throughout each day for a month, showed that 50 per cent of their time was passed pleasantly, 28 per cent of it indifferently and only 22 per cent unpleasantly.

SWARMI FEDD visited the Patent Office, research room, yesterday. He was courteously treated by the clerk in charge, Elton K. Brown. Later, he appeared at the sales division window. The young man on duty hardly ranked 100 per cent accommodating, either in speech or direction. Swarmi, being a shy individual, was somewhat embarrassed by the treatment. Happily, a gentleman, likely another Patent Office employe, recognizing the situation, eased the predicament by offering to be of aid. Mr. Accommodating not only acted as pilot, but was painstaking as to all details necessary thereafter to purchase a copy of a patent. Swarmi Fedd elects this method to thank his friend.

And has Mr. Morgenthau cut salaries of the Farm Board subsidiaries since he got to be its chief? We'll say he has. Pay roll of the Grain Stabilization Corporation for April is $6,408 against $22,868 for March.

At Commerce:

With all sorts of suggestions on how it happened, "Doc" Cain, still can't quite see how the gasoline got out of his car. He bought five gallons Friday, left the auto over Saturday and Sunday idle and ran out of gas Monday en route to work. He figures he gets only five miles to the gallon where he used to get 22.

One must have one's exercise. Over in Rome, Italy they don't have good golf courses like the one at Indian Springs and they don't have many. So Jack Kennedy, formerly of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, has taken up fencing. He used to be an ardent golfer here.

Lynnhavens on the halfshell, only they aren't. They are really phony. And they're part of Fisheries' exhibit at Chicago's Fair. But not until a Commerce employe returned from the cafeteria with a handful of crackers, salt, peper and cocktail sauce did she find they weren't real.

The Navy Band (and aren't its members all Government employes?) did itself proud last evening at the navy yard with its reditions of William H. Woodin's numbers, directed by Lieut. Charles Benter. U. S. DEBT IGNORED BY BRITISH BUDGET

Chamberlain's Figures Are on Same Lines as Last Year.

London, April 25 (A.P.).—Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain today presented to the House of Commons the British government's 1933-1934 budget, which was balanced on orthodox lines, but which made no provision for the American war debt payment due in June.

In failing to provide for the coming payment, the chancellor followed the same course as last year, when the December instalment was paid despite the fact that the Lausanne agreement canceled England's receipts from reparations and war debts due her.

These the British government had balanced against the payments to the United States.

In a statement in this regard, Mr. Chamberlain said:

"In 1933-34 we should, under the agreement with the United States Government, be liable to pay $193,500,000, the equivalent at the rate of exchange last Saturday of £51,000,000.

"Against this we should receive in reparations £32,500,000, in allied war debts £19,500,000, and in Dominion war debts, relief debts, &c., £12,500,000, making a total of £64,500,000.

"It must be obvious that none of these figures, whether they represent assets or liabilities, can be said yet to be in a fixed or final form.

"Therefore I propose this year to adopt the same procedure as I did last year and to make no provision for payments to America or receipts from other countries to ourselves."

The chancellor's speech to the House was devoid of any unexpected or sensational features.

His figures showed an estimated surplus of £1,291,000 ($4,900,000) even after he had sacrificed some £14,000,000 in revenue to insistent demands of workers for a reduction in the tax on their beer, which was cut a penny a pint.

Richmond, Va., April 25 (A.P.).—The State Corporation Commission today authorized the Bank of Hampton, Hampton, Va., to suspend business for a period of 30 days, ending at the close of the business day, May 25.

Slippery Hoodlum In 15th Jail-Break

He Beats Death-House, but Bright-Light Weakness Leads to Capture.

Milledgeville, Ga., April 25 (A.P.).—Leland Harvey, a blatant but petty hoodlum whose uncanny habit of jail-breaking has made him notorious, escaped prison today for the fifteenth time, but was captured again because—as usual—he headed for the bright lights instead of the bushes.

Leland sawed bars of his cell in the death house of the penitentiary here, greased his body with soap and squirmed to liberty. Then he locked slumbering guards in a cell, took their guns, keys, money and automobile and fled an hour before dawn.

Superintendent B. H. Dunaway, of the State prison, who knows Leland's weakness for bright lights telephoned Macon to look for him, and within a few hours officers picked him up on the outskirts of that city. He surrendered without trouble and was returned here. It is the second time Leland had escaped from the death cell.

Kidnaped Teacher Thought Murdered

Body of Vancouver Youth Found in Slough; $5,000 Was Demanded.

Victoria, B. C., April 25 (A.P.).—Police chiefs of Victoria and Vancouver, British Columbia, agreed today that Stewart Ashley, 19-year-old Vancouver school teacher, was murdered by kidnapers.

The young teacher's body was found in a slough near here Sunday, three days after a kidnaper's letter said he would be killed unless $5,000 ransom were paid. Investigating officers expressed belief Ashley was killed by some poisonous gas, probably carbon monoxide, and his body then thrown into the slough. He disappeared the night of April 13.

Belzoni, Miss., April 25 (A.P.).—A bright sun and the Federal Government joined hands today to bring relief to planters and share croppers east of the Yazoo River, where thousands of acres of rich Mississippi delta cotton land lie beneath overflow waters of the turbulent stream.

A marked drop in the flood stage was noted over a wide area south and east of Belzoni, according to reports gathered by a representative of the Federal Seed Loan Office here, and prospects of continued clear, warm weather lent to the likelihood of further recession.

CHICAGO DISCUSSES CLOSING OF SCHOOLS

Complete Shutdown Looms After Teachers Stage Protest Raids.

Chicago, April 25 (A.P.).—The affliction of Chicago's school system for many months threatened today to develop into a case of complete paralysis unless a stimulant in the form of cash were immediately provided.

The fine question pondered by city and school officials was:

Should the city halt its mounting debt to the long unpaid teachers by closing the schools for three months, thereby relieving them of working for nothing?

Prodded to activity by the increasing anger of the pedagogues over payless pay days—which yesterday led them to invade the loop banks with a demand for immediate cash—officials conferred regarding the proposal to declare a moratorium on educational facilities.

Orville J. Taylor, president of the board of education, announced after a conference with Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan and Mayor Edward J. Kelly that he was in favor of closing the schools from May 12 to October 1.

The proposal, already contained in a resolution offered by School Trustee J. Wallace Caldwell, will be debated at the eduactional board's meeting tomororw, Taylor said.

Los Angeles, April 25 (A.P.).—Under the old California code prohibiting gentlemen from having recourse to the "field of honor," W. B. Blake, 60-year-old inventor, was held for trial today after hearing on a charge of attempting to fight a duel.

Blake's challenge to a meeting with pistols was described by the other "principal," Herbert Miller, lawyer, who had attempted unsuccessfully to get a patent for Blake on an artificial honeycomb arrangement for the convenience of bees. Blake has kept bees for years.

"There's been no one killed," Blake told the court after Miller had testified. "I was only trying to get justice from this man." Blake's bond was reduced from $5,000 to $1,000, but he could not supply it.

JAPANESE LAUNCH DRIVE BELOW WALL

General Attack Under Way to Clear District of Chinese Army.

Peiping, China, April 25 (A.P.).—A general attack south of the Great Chinese Wall was launched today by the Japanese with the intention of clearing the area of Chinese troops.

The Japanese military command, saying that it had "lost patience as a result of continued Chinese attacks" near the Kupei passageway to Peiping, declared its expectation of occupying soon the strategic points in the north China area.

The new offensive, which follows heavy fighting over the week-end near Kupeikow, would seek to open the way to Peiping. The Chinese announced they were holding their positions near the wall.

The British Legation, meanwhile, said negotiations for a Sino-Japanese armistice were not in progress through the agency of the legation.

COURTHOUSE WINS AWARD FOR MERIT

Mrs. Robertson Withdraws From Takoma Park Council Race.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 8706 Georgia Ave., Silver Spring, Md. Telephone Shepherd 2363.

Selection of the Montgomery County Courthouse at Rockville, Md., for an award of merit by the Washington Board of Trade was made known in a telegram received yesterday by the Montgomery County Commissioners. The meritorial building contest of the Board of Trade is conducted every two years.

Presentation of the award will be made tomorrow night to Charles Y. Latimer, clerk of the county commissioners, who will represent the board of commissioners, at the meeting of the Board of Trade at the Mayflower Hotel at 8 p. m. Announcement of the award was made in a telegram sent by Robert J. Cottrell, executive secretary of the Board of Trade.

Withdrawal of Mrs. James A. Robertson, of Prince Georges County, from the race for the post of Takoma Park town councilman to succeed Irvine H. Ware for the remainder of his term, leaves Maj. C. Leonard Boyer, president of the Community League of Tokoma Park, Md., as the only candidate for the post.

Mrs. Robertson was nominated Monday night at the town caucus, but let it be known soon after that she did not intend to run. She was the only woman nominated.

H. H. Cobban, who was nominated for the two-year term yesterday said that he had intended running for the one-year term of Mr. Ware and efforts were made to have his candidacy moved to that classification. Town Clerk J. Wilson Dodd obtained a ruling from Corporation Counsel E. Barrett Prettyman, who held that under the town's laws, the change could not be made.

There were 681 residents of the town registered yesterday in the two-day registration, which will continue today from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 10 p. m. at the firehouse. This was approximately half of the persons eligible for registration to vote in the town elections and Town Clerk Dodd last night warned that those who fail to register today will not be able to vote at the annual election Monday.

County Police Get Custody Over Jail

Prince Georges Commissioners End Dispute on Hyattsville Lock-Up.

Ending a controversy of several years' standing, the Prince Georges County commissioners yesterday issued an order giving the chief of the county police custody of the lock-up at Hyattsville, effective until May 1.

When the lock-up was originally established, it was turned over to the police force. Subsequently a prisoner secured his release from it on a writ of habeas corpus, on the ground that the chief of police had no legal power to hold prisoners. It was then turned over to the sheriff's office. Early this year the legislature passed a law specifically allowing the chief of police to take control of the jail, and the commissioners' order is in line with this law.

The board yesterday also ordered $100 of the race track relief funds turned over to the Bowie Welfare Club, and another $50 given to the Allentown Homemakers Club. The money is a part of the county's share in receipts from charity days at the Maryland race tracks.

Mayor McCuen Issues Call for Vote May 15 on New Officials.

A special election to name a board to handle funds collected under the new fire tax has been called for May 15 by Mayor Henry T. McCuen of Glen Echo, Md. 3 PLEAD NOT GUILTY TO MURDER CHARGES

Oscar Brady, Ben Jackson and Lyle Rolland Are Arraigned.

Three murder cases which aroused Prince Georges County during the winter echoed yesterday when the three accused murderers were arraigned in the county circuit court, each pleading not guilty.

One of the prisoners was Oscar Brady, of Brightseat, charged with the murder of Charles W. Martin, of Tuxedo, Md. The State will attempt to prove that Brady shot Martin because of jealousy over Mrs. Mary Dawson, also of Tuxedo.

Ben Jackson, who lives near Marlboro, pleaded not guilty to a charge that he shot John Colton to death at a dance last January. Colton was killed and William Chaney, who also lives near Marlboro, was seriously wounded. Jackson was also indicted for assault with intent to kill Chaney, but was not arraigned on this charge.

The third prisoner was Lyle C. Rolland, a Capitol Heights house painter, who is accused of the murder of his common-law wife, Margaret. The woman was burned to death last fall when fire partially destroyed their home. Dates for trial of the three men have not been set, but the trials will be held within a few weeks.

Moncure Is Urged For Delegate Seat

Friends Seek East Falls Church Man's Candidacy for Position.

Richard C. L. Moncure, prominent Democrat, of East Falls Church, is being urged by friends to become a candidate for a seat in the House of Delegates.

Mr. Moncure through his long residence and active participation in civic affairs is well known in Arlington County. He served as Mayor of Falls Church in 1927 and 1928 at the age of 24, being the youngest mayor in the history of the town.

He served twice as delegate to the State Democratic convention, is vice chairman of the Democratic Club precinct committee of East Falls Church and a member of the executive committee of the club.

He was educated in the public schools of Virginia and received his LL. B. degree from George Washington University.

ARLINGTON OWNERS OF AUTOS WARNED

Tag Deadline Sunday Night; Income Tax Statement Also Issued.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST. Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Sunday midnight will be the deadline for 1932 automobile tags. They can be obtained from the office of J. V. Turner, East Falls Church. Reports from his office yesterday revealed that 2,877 tags have thus far been issued. Records show that this is slightly more than 25 per cent of total number to be issued.

T. McCall Frazer, director division of Motor Vehicles, Richmond, has issued warning through automobile tag agents that many car owners will be unable to get their tags on time this year, due to the fact that they have changed their addresses, but have failed to notify the division of such change.

Mr. Frazer also advises that his office will hereafter scrutinize more carefully applications for convertable licenses, since his attention has been called to the fact that many automobile owners are applying for this license, when, in reality, their cars should carry the regular passenger license.

Calling attention to the taxpayers of Arlington County relative to filing their tax returns Harry K. Green, commissioner of revenue of Arlington County, gave out the following statement last night:

"In accordance with the tax laws of the State of Virginia, every person, male or female, having reached the age of 21 years, and every corporation, firm or partnership, must seek the commissioner of revenue in person or by agent on or before June 1 to make tax returns on tangible and intangible personal property and income.

"Failure to make returns subjects taxpayers to a penalty of 10 per cent of the amount of taxes assessed and in no case can the penalty be less than $2.

"All single persons making as much as $1,250, and all married persons making as much as $2,800, must make a State income return, regardless of exemptions. Federal employes receiving all of their income from the Federal Government are not required to return such income for taxation. Do not confuse Federal income with State income; there are two income taxes in Virginia.

"All returns must be sworn to before being accepted by the commissioner."

Mr. Green says that he will be at his office at the courthouse each week day except Saturday from 8:30 to 4:30 to receive tax returns. On Saturdays the office closes at 1 p. m.

Corner Stone of Church At Fairfax to Be Laid

The vestry of the Zion Episcopal Church at Fairfax, Va., has decided to lay the corner stone of the new church building on May 7. The Right Rev. Henry S. George Tucker, Bishop of Virginia, will officiate.

The principal speaker will be Roswell Page, of Beaver Dam, Va., a brother of the late Rev. Frank Page, who for many years was rector of the Zion Church. R. Walton Moore is chairman of the committee on arrangements. Bishop Tucker is a direct descendant of George Washington, who was chairman of the building committee for the erection of the original Paynes Church, near Fairfax Station, of which the new building is a duplicate. Paynes Church was destroyed during the Civil War by Union soldiers, who used the brick to make baking ovens.

DR. M'CRACKEN SEES U. S. HOPE IN YOUTH

Vassar President Says New Generation Will Rise to Crisis in Time.

Young people of America have been bred in a generation of dissolution, declared Dr. Henry Noble McCracken, president of Vassar College, last night, but they will arise to a crisis brought about by an era of disintegration. The remarks of the educator were made at the convention dinner of the American Red Cross at the Mayflower Hotel.

The Vassar president declared out of an unreal prosperity youth would emerge triumphant from the "valley of humiliation."

"The new era," said Dr. McCracken, "is to be marked by the acceptance of responsibility on the part of the individual for his share in democracy. He will yield much of his old-time freedom, most of his leisure, no doubt, in order that social control may be established, but he will hold his representatives responsible for the proper solution of the social problem."

Red Cross to March On.

The Red Cross, said Dr. McCracken, will play a part "no less definite, no less imperative than in the past."

A tribute to those often called "fanatics" was paid by Dr. J. L. Biggar, National Commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

"It is to those whom we call fanatics, I repeat," said Dr. Biggars, "that we owe practically every step that has been made in our slow journey toward a better world. Until some one arose as a champion of the oppressed—the underdog—they remained underdogs. As long as no one cared about the sufferings of others, those sufferings had to be borne. They are the fanatics to whom the world owes an unpayable debt."

Nurse Expert Talks.

Following Dr. Biggars, Dr. Annie W. Goddrich, of the Yale University School of Nursing, quoted voluminous statistics and Red Cross reports to indicate progress of Red Cross nursing work. She concluded with an appeal for coöperation in the great task of the Red Cross nurses.

J. Prentice Murphy, general secretary of the Children's Bureau, of Philadelphia, declared that Federal aid in the emergency, if wrongly administered, would result in the breakdown of private social work.

On the other hand, the Rev. John O'Grady, director of Catholic charities at Washington, contended, "no society can dispense with private charity."

HOW ABOUT GOLD BONDS?

The most serious unanswered question with respect to the inflation measure before Congress concerns the payment of Government bonds. These obligations call for payment of their face value in gold dollars of specified weight and fineness. After the administration has revalued the dollar at a lower figure, as it seems determined to do, will it pay dollars of the present gold content to bondholders?

Senator Reed raised this question on the floor of the Senate. In response Senator Pittman said he feared it would be impossible to fulfill the gold redemption promises in these bonds. Senator Ashurst, on the other hand, believes that the Government will never seek to escape its obligations. Nothing has been said on this question by the White House, but it is known that the administration is seeking power to modify or cancel any contract to which the United States is a party. Grave apprehension has arisen among bondholders that this power is intended to change the promise to pay gold dollars of the present weight and fineness to a promise to pay depreciated currency. This fear is strengthened by a monetary expert of the Treasury, who is confident that the gold clause of Government bonds is to be invalidated.

If the dollar should be revalued at 75 cents, for example, and the Government had to continue paying its debts at 100 cents on the dollar, the effect would be to add about $5,000,000,000 to the Federal debt. The Government would collect taxes in 75-cent dollars and pay its debt in 100-cent dollars. Nearly another $5,000,000,000 would be added to State and municipal debts. It is difficult to see how the resulting increase of taxes would aid business in any respect. A crushing burden would be heaped upon taxpayers in order to pay bondholders a premium. Living costs would be adjusted to the basis of the new dollar, but bondholders would still obtain the present large dollars. The public would be swindled for the benefit of bondholders.

On the other hand, if the Government should break its contract with the people who lent money to fight the war, what would become of Government credit? The Treasury has made definite and specific promises to pay its bonds in the present gold dollars. With that promise repudiated, and with the President wielding power to move the value of the dollar up or down in accordance with the fluctuations of business and foreign currencies, the public would refuse to lend Uncle Sam money on a long term basis. Government credit would be weakened in a most critical period.

It is important to note also that agreements to pay gold dollars of the present weight and fineness have also been written into most mortgages and corporate bonds. Would Congress dare to upset these contracts? Could it do so under the Constitution? If the dollar should be devalued, and these contracts should remain valid, the effect would be enormously to increase the debts of the people. The major purpose of this inflation scheme is to benefit debtors. How can debtors be benefited by increasing their obligations?

The whole idea of aiding people who are in distress by debasement of the dollar is absurd when an analysis of the debtor class is made. The largest debtors are the corporations. A recent estimate placed the corporate debt at $42,943,000,000. This compares with a total farm debt of about $12,000,000,000. Can any one be so simple as to believe that the major benefits of inflation, if there are any, would go to farm debtors? A cheap dollar would enable corporate interests to pay off their debts at a discount at the expense of people who have savings accounts, life insurance policies and other small holdings. History shows that speculators have invariably benefited and the working classes have invariably suffered as a result of monetary adulteration.

Why doesn't Congress turn over a few pages of history? At least it may be hoped that Congress will have the intelligence to fix a policy for dealing with gold obligations before it launches upon this dangerous experiment. Otherwise, it can only plunge blindly into the pit of inflation. It is amazing that a point of such vital importance should be given no thought in this mad rush toward a cheaper dollar.

MEXICAN CREDIT.

All who wish the best for the government and people of Mexico will welcome as an act of statesmanship the statement by President Rodriguez that the Mexican government is prepared to offer an immediate settlement en bloc of American claims against Mexico.

The late Senator Morrow, then Ambassador to Mexico, initiated negotiations to put an end to the general and special claims commissions and to agree upon a settlement of the American claims in one single transaction. These negotiations were continued under President Hoover by both Senator Morrow and Ambassador J. Reuben Clark, Jr. The statement by President Rodriguez that Mexico is now prepared to effect such a settlement will, if carried out, do more to restore the position and credit of that country than all that has been done in the last twenty years.

Such a settlement would restore the confidence of American investors and open the way to an effective funding of the foreign debt of Mexico as a whole. It should also place Mexico in a position to effect a foreign loan, based upon the security of silver at a fair price and result in the recovery of its most important mining industry. This would stimulate agriculture and all other industries and enable Mexico to carry out extensive road construction and other public enterprises upon a national scale.

It has long been clear to all informed observers that the settlement of American claims through the expensive and futile commissions, which in the past nine years have not disposed of 10 per cent of the American claims, must be abandoned and that the two governments must effect a settlement en bloc, which would be to the interest of Mexico quite as much as to the thousands of American citizens whose millions of investments in Mexico made possible its great prosperity under Diaz.

The most simple solution of this important problem would be for Mexico to issue twenty-five-year bonds in an agreed amount, payable to the United States Government, which would hold the bonds and settle with American citizens either with the new currency or government bonds.

SENATOR ROBINSON.

The part played by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, in the dramatic events that are crowding the pages of current history is worthy of comment. He is the Democratic leader of the Senate, and the right-hand man of President Roosevelt in carrying into effect the pledges and policies of the party. Upon Senator Robinson falls the duty of advising the President on legislative strategy in pushing through the party program. He discharges the equally important duty of marshaling the forces of the majority, interpreting to them and to Congress the purposes of legislation sponsored or approved by the President, and directing the tactics whereby this legislation is transformed into law.

Senator Robinson's leadership has been earned by long service, special fitness, personal qualities, and other factors which place men at the front. But his influence has been increased by his growth in statesmanship. He is an American first of all. His loyalty to the Democratic party goes without saying, but his aim is American public welfare, which sometimes requires legislators to submerge partisanship in cooperation by all parties for the nation's sake. Republicans who have supported President Roosevelt's emergency program have found it easier to do so because of the absence of partisan rancor in Senator Robinson's tactful management of administration measures.

Partisanship will develop as the administration presses forward. The cleavage between the parties is inevitable and healthful. Opposition in matters of policy is useful. Senator Robinson, when in opposition to Republican administrations, clarified many matters of public importance, and he is the last to complain of opposition based on differences of political opinions.

As the lines tighten and as the Democratic party develops its policies the leader of that party in the Senate assumes heavier responsibilities. His political foemen recognize in him a formidable but a fair fighter. His party followers have confidence in his leadership. The administration is fortunate in having him for its champion.

GUARANTEED DEPOSITS.

Various proposals to safeguard bank deposits are receiving attention in Congress. Following a White House conference Senator Glass, in charge of the bill making important changes in the Federal banking laws, expressed himself as greatly encouraged over the chances of reaching agreement on all disputed points and securing passage of the bill at this session, a possibility that had begun to grow dim recently, owing to a wide divergence of views.

The question of covering all deposits in the banks of the Federal Reserve system by insurance is a contentious issue. The President's suggestion at the latest conference is reported to be limitation of 100 per cent guarantee to deposits of a maximum of $10,000, with partial insurance for larger amounts. A recommendation made by Roger W. Babson in this connection is worthy of consideration. He would not make the guarantee of bank deposits a uniform, blanket arrangement for all banks, but would extend this added security to banks in proportion to the facilities they provide for the borrowing public.

Mr. Babson's idea is that a bank should enjoy the increased protection of the deposit insurance fund in direct proportion to its turnover. The more liberal a bank was in affording business and industry needed loans and working capital, the greater share of insurance it should be eligible to receive for the security of its depositors' funds. This would be a stimulus to liberal banking policy and would facilitate the distribution of much-needed financial assistance to employers, thus reducing unemployment. The suggestion is one that should receive the serious attention of the Administration and members of Congress who are framing the banking legislation.

THE BRAIN AS A DYNAMO.

What is thought?

This age-old question has been given a great deal of attention, and it is not neglected even in these parlous times. Dr. George W. Crile, director of the Cleveland Clinic, has made an elaborate study of the subject from the physiological standpoint, arriving at the conclusion that thought is an electro-chemical process in the brain.

"Mind," says this distinguished scientist, "is a product of electricity generated by matter." He explains that the gray matter of the brain is composed of four quadrillion protoplasmic units or cells whose function is energy transformation. These cells he regards as minute dynamos furnishing energy for mental processes. The action of the mind is the action of these myriads of brain-cell batteries, he says, and thought is thus a pure electro-chemical process.

The white matter of the brain, according to Dr. Crile, performs a different function. It has no qualities of the dynamo, but records the electric charges that pass through it, thus providing man with memory and with habits. Dr. Crile compares the white matter of the brain to a matrix which registers every thought, every action and every emotion that the individual experiences. It makes an infinitely complicated network of impressions, like an extremely delicate film.

Dr. Crile and other scientists have gone so far as to measure the generation and emission of radiation from the gray matter of brains. The dynamics of the brain, he says, seem to parallel the dynamics of the energy processes of non-living mechanisms, such as the internal combustion engine.

This effort to explain the brain as an entirely mechanical organ does not clear away the mystery of intelligence. What Dr. Crile seems to explain is the physical action of the brain. What motivates it? Can it be that the blind force of electricity operating upon protoplasm produces all the delicate sensations, emotions and ideas that spring within the human mind? It seems crude indeed to explain the infinitely complicated workings of the intellect as the result of the same process by which a battery emits energy. Science may be able to observe how the brain works, but it has a long way to go before it can divine what is the essence of intelligence.

AN ABSURD DECISION.

Gov. Ely, of Massachusetts, recently signed extradition papers for the return of George Crawford to Virginia to stand trial for the murder of two women at Middleburg. In doing so he complied with that provision in the Constitution which says that "a person charged in any State with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice, and be found in another State, shall on demand of the executive authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the State having jurisdiction of the crime." It is the plain intent of the Constitution that an individual charged with crime shall be returned for trial to the place where the offense was committed.

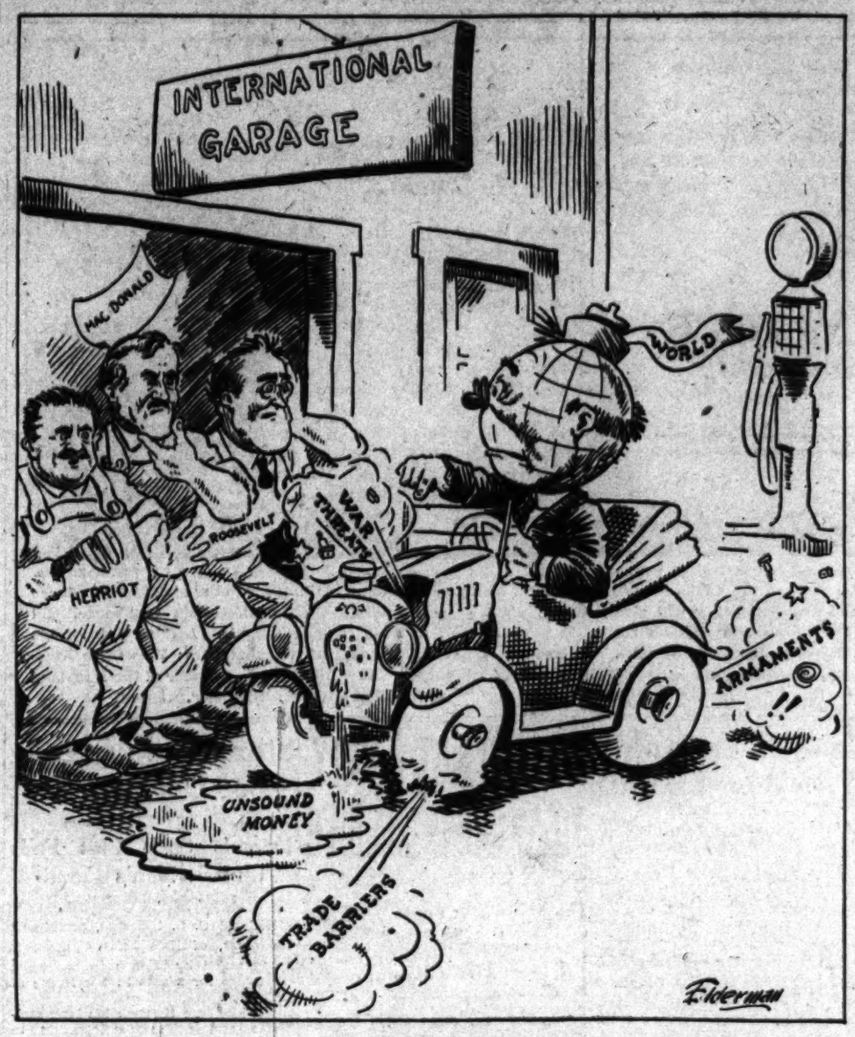
In spite of this responsibility, Judge James A. Lowell, of the Federal Court at Boston, has granted a writ of habeas corpus intended to free Crawford before he can be delivered over to Virginia officials. The reasoning behind Judge Lowell's decision is hopelessly clouded. He takes note of a Supreme Court decision to the effect that failure to allow Negroes to serve on juries may constitute a mistrial. Virginia has no law forbidding Negroes to act as jurors, but in practice they are not called for such service. The Boston judge, therefore, takes it upon himself to decide that trial of Crawford in Virginia would be futile, and frees the defendant.

It is strange indeed for a judge to deny to a State the right to try an individual accused of crime. In making his decision Judge Lowell took unto himself power that is vested in the courts of Virginia and in the Supreme Court of the United States. How does he know what kind of trial would be accorded the accused in Virginia? And even if he did know, what right has he to ignore the constitutional mandate that accused persons caught in one State "shall" be delivered up to the State having jurisdiction of the crime? Such an absurd warping of justice will doubtless bring an early rebuke from the higher courts.

Every time Prime Minister MacDonald visits Washington whittling of some kind begins. It's only natural that the present effort to whittle down the dollar should be less welcome than the former effort to whittle Rapidan twigs and world navies.

Of course, a moratorium on the debts is necessary as a preliminary to the world economic conference—and debt revision. Prepare to swallow your words on the debts, Congress!

"What do you offer, gentlemen, in exchange for debt revision?"



Fix It, Please.

POST HASTE.

Senator Thomas says that inflation would transfer $200,000,000,000 from the thrifty to the improvident. But wasn't he supposed to speak in favor of the bill?

Possibly you can remember how, once upon a time, the Senate used to tremble when Borah thundered: "Unconstitutional!"

Senator Tydings is young and will live to fight another day for principles that will also survive inflationary heresies.

If, among the statements of Secretary Hull and Senator Robinson as to why we went off the gold standard, and the explanations of Senators Thomas and Tydings as to what it will do for and to us, any Democrat does not find congenial argument, he holds novel views.

Already another buffer state is proposed for North China. Anyhow, Japan may well argue, so far as modern warfare is concerned, the Great Wall is merely an imaginary line.

The most encouraging thing in sight is the growing realization that international economic and financial questions can not be settled right or permanently without some needed political agreements.

France, Poland and the three nations of the Little Entente sign an agreement opposing peace treaty revision. Hitler is thinking up a fit answer and is in a proper state to do it.

Gen. Ma has finally turned up in a Berlin hospital for his first successful operation.

The Thomas idea of a forcible transfer of bank deposits from the owners to debtors wouldn't help matters long. Folks who can't accumulate their own money couldn't keep that of others.

There are evidences that a senatorial muffler is becoming uncomfortable for our warm-blooded Vice President as the season advances.

Representing the franc that has already gone through an 80 per cent deflation, M. Herriot finds he doesn't talk quite the same language, even, as those who speak Anglo-American French.

PAUL HUDSON.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

AT A SIMILAR TIME NERO FIDDLED.

And is it right or is it wrong?
Did this or that he mean?
Is this one panel much too strong,
Irreverent or obscene?
The artist's brush, the artist's mind
Expressed themselves no doubt,
But is it vulgar or refined
And what's it all about?

Some tell me here's a work of art,
While others scoff and sneer.
In groups the people draw apart
To criticize or cheer.
One calls these murals splendid things
Of mastery and skill,
Another calls them brutal flings
Of hatred and ill-will.

I know that hungry people plead
For food from day to day,
That round about us want and need
Their cruel fangs display;
That problems weighty more and more
Beset us one and all
And I've found time to quarrel o'er
Some pictures on a wall.

Oh, whether they be right or wrong,
The truth or cruel jest,
I'm sure that elsewhere I belong
In such a time of test.
I'd rather thought to suffering give
Then join such hue and cry,
Since what is good I know will live
And what is bad will die.

How Strange to Use Water for Lawns While Men Die of Thirst!

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MANY years ago there was an island kingdom that had no rivers or streams of any kind and no rainfall. Water could be obtained only by drilling deep wells.

Being scarce and hard to get, water had a money value and was sold in the market place. The price was high and none but the rich could afford abundance.

There was enough for all, if everybody used it wisely, but wisdom was more rare than vanity. Rich people, wishing to make a show of their wealth, kept pools of water in their homes, bathed in fresh water every day, and even built fountains to splash in their front yards.

As a result of this extravagance, the land suffered a continual water famine. The poor were often thirsty and many of them died for want of anything to drink.

Even the well-to-do suffered indirectly, for they caught disease from the unwashed poor and often their supplies of water were stolen.

That, you will say, is an impossible fable. People would not be so foolish as to waste the very water of life. But I assure you it is a true picture of mankind's stupid vanity, and the like of it can be found today.

Observe the glittering dome of a public building or a place of worship. The thing that glitters is gold. It covers letters and figures of a thousand signs on every business street of every city. It ornaments millions of people. It is made into watch cases and rings and countless trinkets of jewelry, and it fills the cavities in neglected teeth and in time will be buried with them.

Thus does man impoverish himself to feed his vanity. For want of the gold thus wasted the world's commerce is strangled, men look in vain for work, families lose their homes and thousands die in want.

For gold is the magic metal that gives value to currency, and each dollar of sound currency supports many dollars' worth of credit, and credit is the foundation of the commerce that makes prosperity.

Would the wasted gold make times good? The answer is that newly discovered gold fields have ended depressions in the past.

How much gold is wasted? No man knows. The world's present monetary gold stock is a trifle over $11,900,000,000. Yet the world has mined $22,500,000,000 of gold in the last 450 years, and men have been digging it from the earth and winnowing it from river sands for 5,000 years.

Through the ages men have treasured it. Little has been lost except at sea. It does not rust or decay. The gold that Egypt's Pharaohs wore is somewhere today.

Yet eleven billion dollars' worth of the modern world's production is somewhere wasted and all that the ancients produced is somewhere idle.

Make it all into money and our problems are solved. To permit its use except in money is like permitting destruction of the air that men must have to live.

POLITICAL COMMENT

A Woman Minister.

Houston Post.

Ruth Bryan Owen, a daughter of William Jennings Bryan, has been appointed American Minister to Denmark and Iceland.

The country's best wishes will go with Mrs. Owen to her new post. While she did not set the world on fire while she was in Congress, she proved herself to be a competent, level-headed woman. She is certain to feel that an unusual responsibility rests upon her, since the success or failure of her ministry will have much to do with the question of whether or not other women will be intrusted with the delicate and often trying tasks of diplomacy.

New Postal Rates.

Houston Post.

In line with the general policy of the administration to seek powers to deal with situations as they arise, instead of being bound by narrowly fixed limitations, which would require a new session of Congress to change, Postmaster General Jim Farley is asking that the President be given wide powers to declare postage rates, those powers to extend until July, 1934.

Mr. Farley indicates that his department will reduce the first-class rate from 3 cents back to the old rate of 2 cents. The advance was put into effect last year in the hope of raising additional revenue. Instead, the returns from first-class letters declined substantially. The new chief of the department believes that a return to the lower rate will boost business, but he wants to try it out to make sure. If it doesn't work, for any reason, he wants to be empowered, through the President, to try something else.

Watch the Labor Bill!

Kansas City Star.

The 30-hour week bill has become an increasingly questionable if not an absolutely dangerous proposal. As it came from the Senate, this measure was controversial enough. There was the extremely doubtful feasibility of such a radically shortened week, both from the standpoint of industry and labor. There was the question also as to the constitutionality, and the further detrimental effect of its application only to industries engaged in interstate commerce, without regard to the unfair if not disastrous competition from industries doing an exclusively intrastate business.

The bill, in its present form, would confer upon a single Government department, that of Labor, a most hazardous grant of power. It would mark a radical departure from the traditional American way of doing things, if not from the constitutional principles on which this country has proceeded. It should have the most thorough scrutiny. The house committee may give it that kind of attention in the forthcoming hearings. The measure should not be allowed to go forward virtually by default while the country's thought is being centered largely upon methods of inflation and allied issues of a more spectacular nature.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Slogans Exert Magic Influence on Emotions and Ignorant Masses.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In connection with the "controlled dollar" I have just been struck by the thought of how the adroit use of high-flown words and phrases may affect the fate of nations. In the history of mankind no influence has been greater. Artful keynotes of a William Jennings Bryan, a Theodore Roosevelt, a Elihu Root, a Woodrow Wilson, a Boarh may have a far-reaching political potency of which we are not aware, like the law of gravitation in the physical world.

But more directly than in the case of measured language, the power of detached words to shape human affairs is evident in shibboleths and slogans. History abounds in striking examples of watchwords which have meant conquest or ruin, such as "Delenda est Carthago" and "Deutschland uber Alles," for instance.

Our own history is not an exception. Some of our slogans have been "Give me liberty or give me death," "Free trade and sailors' rights," "Remember the Maine," with crafty mouthings of "sixteen-to-one," "the full dinner pail," "an honest dollar," "the dollar of our daddies," and this century "make the world safe for democracy," "war to end war," "give till it hurts."

In years of extreme political unrest the power of catchwords to dazzle the electorate is especially noticeable and dangerous. As envisioned in the unreasoning hopes and fears of the people, there is no telling what governmental changes may result from the promise of a "controlled" medium of exchange, industrial output and price level.

The reason why these words and phrases are so potent in politics is easy to understand. By their use every citizen becomes his own orator and is for the time being blindly obstinate in defense of a cause.

They are of prehistoric origin. They started with the first inarticulate war cry of primitive man. And it is reasonable to assume that their influence will at times interfere with the well-ordered administration of Government until civilized man has reached the dreamed-of point where clear-headed ratiocination takes precedence of primitive emotion.

FEDERALIST.

Regards Ramsay MacDonald as a Great Democrat of Jefferson-Lincoln Type.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Will you permit a strong partisan of the United States to record his gratification in the fact that Great Britain is represented in the pending conference on international matters by a man of such clear vision, such high character and such deep-grained democracy as Mr. Ramsay MacDonald brings to the conference. A lifelong student of the problem of human welfare, a man of wide and penetrating research in the laboratory of popular government, a world leader of rare experience and equally rare candor, courage and generosity, he has a hold on the confidence of right-thinking men and women in every country in the world, and in almost every school of political and economic thought.

His intense realism is as strong as his uncompromising idealism. The combination of these two traits produces an extraordinary clearness and breadth of understanding, and at the same time accredits his good faith to those with whom he is called upon to negotiate. He has always placed principles above formulas and labels and has devoted his life, often at great sacrifice, to working for a better human living. In spirit and philosophy he ranks with the great English Liberals from Edmund Burke to Lord Bryce, who have been stanch friends of the United States. His point of view is far closer to that of Jefferson and Lincoln than to the thinking of the typical British tory.

My impression is that there is much similarity in the political thinking of the prime minister and our own President, in their strong sympathy with human suffering and their high-minded determination to make the world better. I believe that there is a great deal of hope and promise in their meeting at this time.

Sons of Jonadab Not Dead, But Very Much Alive, Says W. J. Armstrong.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I read with interest the article printed in your column, by John C. Wilson, in reference to the Sons of Jonadab, and was amazed to read that portion in which he appeared to believe that the Sons of Jonadab had ceased to function.

The Sons of Jonadab was organized September 13, 1867, and still meets in the original hall, located in premises No. 623 Louisiana avenue northwest.

The meetings are held each Thursday night and the movement is one of the most potent and efficient instrumentalities for the suppression of drunkenness.

By reforming the individual and putting into his life new conception of duty, a more elevated sense of manhood and a clearer realization of individual responsibility, the family, society, the church and the State are all benefited inestimably.

The order of the Sons of Jonadab is a social and fraternal institution. It puts about the hesitating brother who enters those arms of love and tenderness which the victims of strong drink so sorely need. It is religious, but not sectarian, for it numbers in its brotherhood members of almost every form and type of Christian belief.

The Sons of Jonadab believe in moral suasion, and are very much alive, as Mr. Wilson will find, should he be interested enough to visit them at one of their regular meetings.

We Apologize—

It's a bad mistake, but it was entirely unintentional. Maybe you haven't heard about it yet, but if you who are reading this happen to be one of those who will receive or who have already received the advanced announcement of our sale, we want to apologize to you. We made this very important statement—everything in the entire store reduced!... the least reduction being 10%, and many reductions reaching as high as 50% or more. It was not until exactly 3:25 P. M. Tuesday that we learned that that statement was slightly inaccurate, and we immediately rushed to the newspapers to right ourselves. It seems that some of our buyers had faithfully promised certain manufacturers that at no time under no circumstances would they offer their products at reduced prices. It is our obligation to make good the promises made by these buyers. However, at the same time we want you to know that this store at no time purposely makes any misleading statements. So, we now say—everything in the entire store is reduced from 10% to 50%, with the exception of a few nationally advertised items. We trust that you will accept this apology in the spirit in which it is made.

Those Few Excepted Items Are:

1. Apex washing machines.
2. Kelvinator refrigerators.
3. Toilet preparations of Helena Rubinstein, Marie Carle, Dorothy Gray, Kathleen Mary Quinlan, Francis Fox.
4. Greeting cards.
5. Maidenform brassieres and girdles.

A New Yorker at Large

By MARK BARRON.

NEW YORK—Quite amusing that applause won by Ozzie Nelson, orchestra leader, the other afternoon.

Nelson had been having some differences with the musicians' union over some business matters, so he appeared before the labor council to plead his side of the argument. The union executives were distinctly against Nelson, but they sat back to listen to his speech.

Now, aside from being a clever baton wielder, Nelson is also an extremely colorful orator. He launched into his speech with a string of silver phrases that would have done credit to William Jennings Bryan himself.

With a burst of skyrocketing words he wound up his speech and so overcome were the labor leaders that they burst into spontaneous applause. But with blushes of embarrassment they quickly stopped the hand clapping, and decided the case in favor of the union. For a few seconds, though, it was a triumph for Ozzie.

No Appreciation.

Wandering along by Central Park after midnight, I decided to drop in a nearby friend's apartment, wake him up and thus get in my evil deed for the day.

But he was still up with a small group of friends and they were listening to Iturbi, the Spanish pianist. We were enthralled as we listened to one of Chopin's preludes being interpreted by this man who is ranked by many critics as second only to Paderewski.

Shortly afterwards the music was interrupted by a knock on the door. It was the house superintendent. "The neighbors are complaining," he announced. "You'll have to cut out that banging on the piano."

Wise Guys, Eh?

Broadway, where every habitue thinks he's the last word in "wise guys," was the one street that was taken for a practical joke on the night that beer came back to town.

One of the small taverns over there posted a huge sign offering free beer for the night. The smart Broadways boys took to it like a mutt snapping up a bone, and the place was crowded all evening as the happy gang drank up their gratis seidels. Cheery was the laughter as they welcomed back the real stuff.

But how the boys were being fooled, for they were merely drinking near beer.

FEATURES FOR WOMEN

The Meanderer

Finds Wonders of Fashion, Color, Furnishings, and Comfort in Newly Opened Knitting Shop.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extention 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

She who knits must enter here and read. And she who wants to knit must also take heed. Even she who has never knit and does not want to knit must be very sure of her prejudice against the occupation before she declines to read further. For the Meanderer has news for all who have interest in this age-old-modern plying of needles.

Knitted things to wear that have mode, dash, color; knitted afghans in the patterns our grandmothers loved; other afghans in designs our grandmothers never saw; rugs that are hand-hooked after famous Oriental rugs in the Metropolitan and other museums; cross-stitched rugs, wee, fascinating knitted baby things, and altogether so much knitting as to appease the insatiable knitter and create enthusiasm in the one who is a novice in the art . . . is in the very new knitting shop opening this week on the fifth floor of a Fourteenth street store.

"Fashion has been put into knitted wear," declared Miss Mary Lee Custis, representative of a famous yarn and knitting company, herself a stylist of national reputation. Miss Custis, direct descendant of Nellis Custis, particularly interested in the new shop's Washington environment, declares that nowhere in all her travels in the interest of knit wear is there such an attractive shop as this new one the Meanderer is anxious to describe.

Miss Custis, it should be known, is the designer of myriads of patterns for knit wear featured in bright, attractive instructional knitting books provided in the shop. Miss Custis is contributor in several ways to important current magazines which are sponsoring the knitted wear fashion. And it was Miss Custis who was allowed to take her rug hooking frames to the Metropolitan Museum to copy the incomparably lovely Oriental rug designs shown in the samples in the new shop. Copies of such designs are available in the shop, stamped on warp cloth, and all yarn needed for the designs is found in the local shop's stock. So Ming or Persian rugs of far back centuries may be copied for Washington homes by the ambitious hooker of rugs.

"Fashion is as much the part of the knit wear of today as utility was of the things our grandmothers made," Miss Custis said. "The line and color and possibilities of design in such garments has brought them into such favor—such enthusiastic favor—that it is probable smart knitted wear will always have a place in the fashionable woman's wardrobe."

Old ivory woodwork, faintly pink walls, old ivory chairs and tables—and old ivory whatnots filled with colorful knit wear, bright balls of yarn in rainbow-hued rows, draperies in stripes of soft rose and green, rose and green shaded lamps, cosy quiet corners near windows where the knitters may have instruction—even where knitters may smoke, for ash trays are provided (don't ask the Meanderer how to smoke and knit at the same time, please!)—all this art, color, comfort and fashion come together most pleasantly in Washington's newest knitting shop. The Meanderer prophesies that many pleasant afternoons are going to be spent by shoppers who meet in this knitting shop.

Getting down to the practical—for those who'd never attempt an Oriental rug—there is a delightfully simple slip-over sweater which may be made in one day and which requires but $1 worth of yarn. There is an alluring crocheted lace evening wrap, the cost of which is low—and a beach ensemble, composed of coat, hat and bag, which may be made for less than $10; a knitted coat, the cost of the yarn for which was just $12; and a cross-stitched rug requiring only $7 worth of wool.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was a member of a fashionable group in New York which enthusiastically received knit wear and promoted its popularity. In Capital circles the First Lady frequently is seen in knitted costumes.

The Meanderer is willing to prophesy that "Meet me in the knitting shop" will be heard frequently in making of appointments between shoppers.

What Today Means to You

"TAURUS."

If April 26 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:55 a. m. to 9:15 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. to 11:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 2 p. m. to 3:20 p. m. and from 7:10 p. m. to 8:20 p. m.

Influences operating on this April 26 will tend to produce relapses in all conditions and activities where a trend for the better has been apparent; invalids and convalescents will be inclined to feel worn and droopy. Keep a strong heart and carry on, for this is but a temporary delay and more favorable influences all ready knock at the threshold.

The child born on th April 26 will probably have a vivid and wide imagination; he will be interested in things fantastic and weird. Will probably be inclined to read a good deal, though his taste in literature will not be of the best. Not a good loser. Will advance rapidly along mental lines.

If you were born on April 23 you quite probably have a very lovable way about you that is apparent in all phases of your life, be it in business or purely social relationships. You are an extremely natural person, quite untouched by the many falsities of civilization that flourish all about you. Simple in your ways, kindly and loving, you can at the same time put on a fiery front if rubbed the wrong way. You like to have people about you and you are willing to overlook much in them. Laziness, dishonesty or deceit you are quick to condemn and you can and do deal harshly with any one who exhibits any of those traits of character.

If April 26 is the date of your birth, there will in all probability be little excitement or change in your life. You will travel along rather set and definite paths, leading pretty much of a routine existence. More than likely you are a great reader, and where others travel and wander about a good bit, you will get your information and pleasure from books. It is not at all unlikely that you may do a little writing of some kind, most probably of an imaginative type. You will marry young.

Successful people born on April 26:

Henry Morganthau, Ambassador to Turkey.

Benjamin F. Tracy, lawyer.

Charles F. Browne (Artemus Ward), humorist.

James P. Kimball, geologist.

Erminie A. Smith, scientist.

Harvey Fisk, financier.

1½ cups water
1 lemon slice

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Heim makes two-tone dresses which are very youthful. At left is one in natural linen crash, with black wool. And Cheruit offers a cape in open weave wool plaid of yellow, red and beige, with shoulder pleatings and a separate scarf effect, worn with a beige wool dress.

ONCE upon a time 'twas only the short-haired (when all other hair was long) or the long-haired (when all other hair was short). But this season it is entirely chic to look bizarre or at least odd in one's new clothes! And the effect is achieved by the materials of which these new togs are made.

This is a boon to the "interesting" type of woman who has no claims to beauty or regularity of features. The more bizarre and exotic the fabrics of her ensemble, the more attractive she is. Indeed, this is one of the particular secrets of that extraordinary dancer from Germany, Mary Wiggins.

Anything may be worn at any hour of the day or night—(I am still speaking of fabrics, of course) and it will seem new and very smart if it is well made. But very unlike the lady artist above mentioned who used to cut three holes in a hunk of Javanese batik and girdle herself with a few curtain rings tied with colored string, one's bizarre fabrics today must be exceedingly well made up into exceedingly smart frocks.

"Plaided zephyr" is one of the new fabrics that Paris especially favors for summer. The ancestor of this lovely material is plain gingham, but the offspring has certainly had a college education. And plaided zephyr finds itself fashioned into blouses, hats, and even gloves.

Striped tub-silk has a poetical name for its modern offspring, too, and finds itself in afternoon and evening wear; and pique, both colored and white, is another useful and staple fabric which has found itself suddenly promoted into evening affairs. A lovely evening gown of the most stately and austere lines has been seen—made of embroidered cloth linen! And cotton tusor is fashioned into shopping gloves!

• • • •

The leaflet that you may have this week tells you how to make all sorts of jackets and things—mostly things which are of jacket inspiration but defy naming. And if you think that's because I'm dumb, then you just name the top part of a cunning frock I sketched for you today from Heim! Well, a lot of things like this that you can make in your spare time are in this leaflet, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post will bring it to you. Since the most of any of these new jackets and removable things is in their planning, most all of the work is done for you in the leaflet—some of them would take you only a half an hour to make.

• • • •

As I mentioned above, you can call it what you will, even though its ancestor was a jacket. But hardly a dress this summer but has its removable something, and in a contrasting color, of course. And if it isn't removable, it works very hard to look as though it were, like the black wool top on the extremely youthful looking dress of natural linen crash which I sketched for you today. This is one of the models from Heim in Paris, and one which contributed its full share to the success of his new collection.

Another thing which I defy you to name is the one I sketched for you at the right. This was removable and worn on a smart beige one-piece dress. And the cape itself was in an open weave wool plaid, in yellow, red and beige. This one from Cheruit.

Quite a number of chic Parisiennes are wearing the coat-dress. They like it especially for business, for about town and for travel. Today's model has a two-way neckline. It is equally becoming buttoned to the shoulder or opened in rever styling. For this type of dress, thin woolens in plain or novelty weaves or plain crepe silk is best. Dark blue woolen is sketched.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

A State of Mind.

H. W. writes: What is the best food to eat for nervousness? Can this trouble be caused by bad teeth? I often have indigestion. Could this be caused by bad teeth? When I take medicine for indigestion it seems to make it worse.

REPLY.

Nervousness is a state of mind, a way of taking things. The cure consists in training. People who have learned the advantage of equanimity and who practice the art never suffer from nervousness. The diet, the general health, the teeth are all minor factors when they have any relation to the case.

Cracking Joints.

P. R. writes: What is the cause of the knees, shoulders, ankles, &c., cracking? This started about two weeks ago. Is there any particular food that I could eat that would cure this? I am a woman 30 years old.

REPLY.

You have a mild arthritis, a disorder which is very prevalent among people 30 years and over. The chances are that it will never be very bad. If it progresses it will do so very slowly. In consequence you may think otherwise, but you will never do anything about it. And that is just as well, since so little can be done. I doubt if you would better things by dieting, and again there is a slim chance that you will by the length of time.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

661.

THE PROBLEM OF PROPER DEFENSE.

PROPER defense is the hardest part of Contract Bridge. When it follows stereotyped lines it can be carried out by many players, but when an unusual play is required, very few players can rise to the emergency and produce the proper solution of a difficult problem.

The following hand is an example of a play of this type, which, while apparently simple, was made by only one or two players in the Duplicate tournament in which the hand occurred. Mr. John F. Mattheys was one of these players.

South, Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠ J 10 9 7 5 ♡ K 10 7 6 ◇ A 7 5 ♣ 9
♠ A Q 3 ♡ Q 9 ◇ Q J 10 4 ♣ K Q 6 3	N W E S	♠ K 8 6 2 ♡ A 4 ◇ K 9 8 6 ♣ 10 5 4
	♠ 4 ♡ J 8 5 3 2 ◇ 3 2 ♣ A J 8 7 2 Mr. Mattheys

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1NT	Pass	2NT
Pass	3NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

The bidding was probably technically inaccurate, but under any method the same final contract would have been reached.

The Opening lead was the Knave of spades, which was won by Declarer with the Ace. The Queen of diamonds was led, followed by a low diamond, which was won in Dummy with the 8-spot, North holding off his Ace twice. At this point Declarer could have made certain of his contract by continuing the diamond lead, but, feeling that the hand demanded the establishment of the second suit, he now led the 4 of clubs. It was at this point that Mr. Mattheys grasped his only chance of setting the contract. Knowing that his partner must have had some reason for retaining the Ace of diamonds (if he had it), he won the trick with the Ace of clubs and immediately shifted to the 3 of hearts. On this card West played the Queen, North the King, and Declarer decided to hold off once in Dummy. This made no difference, however, as two more clubs and two more spades were the only tricks available. North's retention of the high diamond gave him the necessary entry and the hand was set 1 trick due to Mr. Matthey's appreciation of an unusual situation.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

If you held the West hand below, how would you attempt to bid it in order to tempt a Double of a contract you could make?

North, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ A Q 8 6 5 ♡ 9 ◇ J 9 2 ♣ K J 5 2
♠ 7 3 ♡ A K Q 8 6 4 3 2 ◇ 5 ♣ 8 6	N W E S	♠ 10 9 4 2 ♡ 10 7 ◇ 10 6 4 3 ♣ A 9 4
	♠ K J ♡ J 5 ◇ A K Q 8 7 ♣ Q 10 7 3

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

EVERY mother who takes pride in her children unadmittedly wants to see them as spotlessly clean as the nursemaid child of the millionaire.

She does not acknowledge that this pleasure in spotlessness is at bottom nothing but snobbishness really, or that at best it is the result of an excessive personaly fastidiousness that has nothing whatever to do with the needs of wholesome childhood.

A great many children are kept entirely too clean.

Their parents justify this as hygienically necessary, but as a matter of fact considerations of health and even decency demand only that children be immaculate at breakfast and at bedtime, and that hands and face be washed before eating.

For the rest, they may be allowed to be as dirty as they naturally become in the process of wholesome, active play.

It does not matter in the least if the neighbors think your children look ill-kept or if visitors do not find them attractive in their grime.

It does not matter that you don't find them sweet and charming at their play. But it matters a great deal that they should play freely without thought of how they look or of what you will say when they come in with muddy shoes, soiled clothes, smudgy hands and faces and hair that looks as though it had never been combed.

It matters enormously that they need never think about themselves at all, that they concentrate on discovering and experimenting with and mastering every challenging aspect of their world.

The child is handicapped severely when his parents insist on keeping him too clean.

Memphis Woman Says Mate Is Lost

Wife Fears Salesman Is Amnesia Victim; Gone Since April 9.

Memphis, Tenn., April 25 (A.P.).—Mrs. J. Selden Watson said today that she had heard no word from her husband, a 44-year-old automobile salesman, since he disappeared from his home here on April 9, and she fears he may have become an amnesia victim.

On that day, Mrs. Watson said, her husband left by bus for Jackson, Miss., planning to visit friends there before going to New Orleans to seek employment.

Watson was connected with an automobile agency here for several years and prior to that time had served agencies at Jackson and New Orleans and operated his own agency at Baton Rouge, La. Before that, he had lived in Richmond and Danville where many of his relatives now reside. Blonde, slightly bald, Watson is 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighs 120 pounds.

Board of Visitors Dined at Academy

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 25.—Members of the official board of visitors on their annual pilgrimage to the Naval Academy today bided their time in a variety program, continuation of inspection of academic departments during the forenoon, luncheon with the regiment of midshipmen in Bancroft Hall, an executive business session, and later in the afternoon witnessed a regimental dress parade. Tonight the visitors were dinner guests of Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the academy.

It was something of a novelty for the inspecting officials to dine with 2,000 young men, for such was the case when they lunched with the midshipmen, and they seemed to enjoy the fare.

Rear Admiral William C. Sims, U. S. N., retired, who heads the party of seven civilian members of the board appointed by the President, is the house guest of Admiral and Mrs. Hart.

Envoy of Belgium Accepts Fete Bid

M. and Mme. May Will See Daughter Crowned at Apple Festival.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., April 25.—The Belgian Ambassador to the United States and Mme. Paul May, of Washington, have accepted an invitation to be the special guests of the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival here May 3, when their daughter, Mlle. Francoise May, is crowned Queen Shenandoah the Tenth at the colorful ceremonies in Handley Stadium, beginning at 3 p. m. The Ambassador and Mme. May will motor here in time for luncheon with Councilman and Mrs. W. Nelson Page.

The Rev. Dr. S. L. Flickinger, Winchester ritualist, stated today that he had completed the ceremonial to be used when Secretary of War George Dern places the crown on the brow of Mlle. May. The ceremony combines the old English with the Floralian rites of ancient Belgium, and was composed after days of extensive research in the archives of the Congressional Library at Washington.

Director General Arthur today announced the entry of the Loew's Fox Cadet Band, of Washington, D. C., composed of 200 musicians, in the grand feature parade, honoring Queen Shenandoah, the afternoon of May 4.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

QUESTIONS repeatedly asked of me while on a trip through the Middle West last week were, "Is the Marine Band off the air for good?" "Are the union musicians to deprive listeners of 'shut-in' concerts permanently?" and "If the Secretary of War allows the Army Band to broadcast, why doesn't the Secretary of the Navy permit the Marine and Navy Bands to be heard?"

It was explained that Secretary of the Navy Adams, in the previous administration, was the official who forbade the broadcasts, and that Secretary Swanson, although the Navy Department has been flooded with letters of protest, has not as yet taken any action to raise the ban.

There was bitter criticism on the part of listeners that organized musicians should deprive those in the hospitals, or the aged or those otherwise confined to their homes, of the Marine Band "Shut-in" concerts. This action was characterized as "short-sighted" and "petty." Several declared, since the people were paying for the upkeep of these bands, they were entitled to hear them, specially if the broadcasting companies offered free facilities for their doing so and no expense was attached to the Government.

It was apparently hard for these listeners in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois to understand how there could be any objection to broadcasting the regular concerts of the Army, Navy and Marine Bands. They granted there would be grounds for protest if the bands played on unofficial occasions, but not so if the networks picked up the concerts regularly given at the barracks.

Furthermore, it was argued that the broadcasting companies seldom used music in filling in the time formerly occupied by the Marine and Navy Bands. If music was used it was said not to be of the high grade furnished by a fine regimental band of from 80 to 100 pieces. The feeling seemed to be that the listeners, especially the "shut-ins," were decidedly the losers because of the ban and the musicians' unions because of the annoyance of the public were small gainers.

ARCHER GIBSON, organist who broadcasts from the residence of Charles M. Schwab, in New York, is building up quite an audience for himself in Washington, as doubtless he is elsewhere. Mr. Gibson is now heard each Sunday night in more than fifteen cities.

He seems to know what to play to please the listeners. Gibson, in cooperation with Mr. Schwab, one of the country's most generous citizens, is affording pleasure nationally which not long ago could be enjoyed by relatively few. If my recollection is correct, Mr. Schwab told me that he got the idea of having a pipe organ in his residence from his old chief, Andrew Carnegie.

Mr. Carnegie, by way of starting the day right, used to be awakened in the morning by the beautiful music of an organ. Archer Gibson, now so well known to radio listeners, has been Mr. Schwab's organist and close personal friend for years. It so happens that Mr. and Mrs. Schwab are to celebrate their golden anniversary with a large party at the Riverside drive mansion next Monday night, but whether any portion of the gala affair is to be broadcast is not yet known.

Dr. John Leighton Stuart, president of Yenching University, at Peiping, China, since 1919, will talk on "America and China Today" during a broadcast at 4:30 p. m. over WMAL. For years Dr. Stuart has maintained a close and friendly contact with the Chinese Government. He is a trustee of the China Foundation for Promotion of Education and Culture, a member of the China Educational Commission, and was decorated with the Third Class Order of Chia Ho by the Republic of China.

A special Pan-American concert to be broadcast tonight at 10:30 p. m., will be heard over WMAL. The United Service Orchestra, composed of musicians of the Army, Navy and Marine Bands, will be alternately directed by Capt. Taylor Branson, Capt. William J. Stannard and Lieut. Charles Benter. The entire concert will be broadcast by Naval Station NAA from 9 to 11 p. m.

PRIME MINISTER RAMSAY MacDONALD'S address before a dinner meeting of the Pilgrims tonight in New York, will be carried by WRC at 9:30 p. m. Premier MacDonald will be introduced by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, who heads the Pilgrims in America.

Lhevinne, the pianist's, selections tonight will be a distinctive arrangement of "The Blue Danube," by Strauss; the celebrated "Toccata" by Schumann; Mozart's "Pastorale Varie," "The Lark" by Balakireff, and Lhevinne's own interpretation of Hummel's "Rondo." (WRC—7:15 p. m.)

Bird call imitations and nature music will be featured in a special program commemorating the 148th birthday of John James Audobon, American naturalist, over WRC during the Woman's Radio Review this afternoon at 3:30 p. m.

Robert MacGimsey, three-tone whistler, who rivals the feathered songsters, will imitate well-known bird calls and then whistle an entire musical composition in familiar bird notes.

A discussion of "Modern Architecture" will be heard over WJSV at 4:15 this afternoon, when Joseph Urban, one of the leading exponents of the newer designs, speaks in the Architecture and the Allied Arts program.

THE dumb crackers, George Burns and Gracie Allen, returned from California on a limited train. Ten minutes out from Los Angeles Gracie called the porter over and asked if the train had a "papoose." Then Burns entered. "Gracie! Whadya mean, 'papoose'?"

"Oh, George, you know—engine and papoose!"

Dexter Fellows, the circus' press agent, is famed for his memory of names. Like his elephants, he never forgets. He can call off the names of reporters and their papers from coast to coast. So every one thought Dexter had slipped up when he told his "Inside Story" to Edwin C. Hill the other night. Fellows addressed Ed as "my old friend, Bill Hill."

But quick research proved him right. Hill is "Bill" to his old newspaper cronies. It originated in his high school days in Aurora, Ind., and he is "Bill" to his wife, rather than "Ed."

DR. HANS LUTHER, German Ambassador to the United States, will be interviewed for the radio audience by William Hard (WRC, 6:30 p. m.).

Hitler's plans for Germany's attitude toward her neighbors have not been explained in detail and Dr. Luther's replies to Hard's questions are expected to throw light on the subject.

Dr. Luther has twice been at the head of the German government as chancellor and also has held the portfolios of minister of agriculture and minister of finance. As head of the Reichsbank, his position was comparable with that of the governor of the Federal Reserve System in the United States.

Mr. Hard will do his regular "Back of the News in Washington" through Station WMAL at 6:30 o'clock.

Gen. Flagg Pauses Here In Reorganizing U. C. V.

An effort to revive the annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans is being made here by Brig. Gen. E. S. Flagg, who is stopping in Washington for a few days on a trip throughout the country to reorganize the veterans.

This year's reunion was cancelled because of economic conditions.

The annual membership rally of the District of Columbia Department, American Legion, will take place tonight at the Immaculate Conception Hall, Eighth and N streets northwest. More than 1,000 legionnaires are expected to attend and a half-dozen distinguished speakers will be heard.

Special arrangements for parking have been made with Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, and legion officials guarantee legionnaires there will be no worry from parking troubles. A pretentious entertainment program also has been arranged.

Players Will Meet Post Chess Editor

The Jewish Community Center, Sixteenth and Q streets northwest, is staging its last simultaneous exhibition of the current chess season this evening. The lone player, who will meet all comers, is W. H. Mutchler, chess editor of The Post. The public is invited to attend.

Those desiring to play the single player are requested to furnish their own board and chessmen, if possible, since it is expected that the Center's facilities will be taxed to the utmost. The exhibition is scheduled to commence at 8 o'clock. There will be no charges in connection with the event.

Stocks Again Record Loss After Attempts to Rally

Average Loss 1.5 Points as Sales Volume Drops to 3,500,390 Shares.

Stocks had a heavy opening, then rallied and finally settled down to a backing and filling that kept the trend very confused. Final prices were mostly a point or two lower, with few exceptions. Bulls tried to keep things moving up. A little action in amusement issues, some motors and a few specialties, but in general the market was plainly disposed to back-track.

United States Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, Sears-Roebuck, American Telephone, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe, New York Central, Union Pacific, Harvester, American Smelting, United Aircraft, United States Smelting, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Union Carbide, Socony-Vacuum and Ohio Oil were down 1 to 1½ net. Case lost 2 and Allied Chemical, 3. National Steel was up 2 points, while Chrysler, Loew's, Warner Bros., General Electric and Radio firmed. Sales totaled 3,500,390 shares, the smallest volume in a week.

United States Steel's directors fulfilled Wall street's expectations by declaring another 50-cent dividend on the preferred stock, though the first-quarter deficit exceeded the record-breaking losses of the previous quarter by a very small margin. Obviously, the board's decision was dictated to a large extent by current gains in business and hopes that second-quarter results would be more favorable.

The oil industry's troubles were brought sharply to the fore by fresh price reductions on east Texas crude. It was reported that these cuts by larger companies were aimed at the troublesome practices which President Holmes of Texas Corporation called "racketeering activities," but whatever the purpose, the effect on earnings is unfavorable.

BONDS CLIMB AGAIN IN SPITE OF SELLING

Market Up One-Tenth, With Lighter Turnover of $14,122,000.

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—The bond market held its own today in the face of some substantial profit taking which unsettled a number of the recently buoyant speculative leaders.

With the appearance of irregularities, trading volume dropped appreciably. Sales totaled $14,122,000, par value, compared with $18,338,000 yesterday. The average for 60 domestic corporate loans advanced one-tenth of a point.

While a number of secondary issues reached a point or more, United States Government securities moved up one-thirty-second to sixteen-thirty-seconds of a point in a rather restricted turnover. The Federals apparently reflected confidence that the Government would soon inaugurate an extensive open-market policy.

Western Union bonds again responded to the company's reports of improved business by gaining 1¾ to 3½ points.

Foreign obligations were mixed. German government issues eased and the Australians were off 1⅞ to 2⅝ points. Colombian and Danish bonds rallied. French 7½s dropped 2½ points and the 7s were up 1½. British 5½s were firm.

American Dollar Is Firmer In Canada Exchange Terms

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—The American dollar was slightly firmer today in terms of Canadian exchange following announcement that Canada had passed an order-in-council suspending redemption of dominion notes in gold.

Announcement of Canada's action was regarded here as formal recognition of a situation which has been in existence since Great Britain went off the gold standard in September, 1931.

The dominion notes act, as amended a month ago, authorizes the governor in council to suspend redemption in gold whenever it is deemed advisable. E. N. Rhodes, Canadian minister of finance, told the House of Commons that the order was passed about two weeks ago. He said he would table the order today.

In Wall street banking circles familiar with the Canadian situation it was estimated that Canada has between $70,000,000 and $75,000,000 of gold against total outstanding dominion notes amounting to $150,000,000. This would represent a coverage of around 50 per cent. Approximately $50,000,000 of the notes are held by the general public, it was said.

While the principle of gold coverage for Canadian money has been strictly maintained, in the same manner as now prevails in the United States, there have been no redemptions in gold by the Canadian government since England left gold, with the exception of small quantities for personal purposes.

For all practical purposes, therefore, it is pointed out, Canada has been off the gold standard since September, 1931, and the order-in-council merely regularizes a procedure which has been adopted following that date.

CURB PRICES REACT UNDER PROFIT SALES

Volume tended to contract on the reverse movement with sales falling to about 316,000 shares from 526,000 yesterday.

The market followed rather closely the course of the big board which was also reactionary. Leaders of the upward movement like Aluminum Co. of America, Newmont Mining, Montgomery Ward A, Electric Bond & Share and Commonwealth Edison dropped from 1 to 3 points.

Deere & Co. Swift issues and most of the oils showed good resistance to the selling and lost only slight ground. Great Atlantic & Pacific spurted 5 points on a small turnover and Celanese preferred gained 6 points on a few odd lot trades.

GOODS MARKET.

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—Brown sheetings were in active demand today at firmer prices. Finished goods continued to sell in fair-sized lots. Rayon prices are to be revised upward by May 1.

Wool goods are in better call and are selling for fall delivery with prices firmer. Burlaps continue firm.

Copper Price Advances Under Active Demand

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—The price of copper was advanced to 6½ cents a pound today to the accompaniment of the most active buying in some time. This is a uniform price among producers and it was also understood to be general asking price of custom smelters.

Demand was less active in the foreign market, it was reported, with European levels at 6.10@6.12½ cents, a slight recession from yesterday.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Business on the stock exchange was fairly active and prices were cheerful awaiting the completion of the budget details. British funds and brewery shares were supported by investors while gold mining issues were active and firm on professional buying. Oil shares and transatlantic issues advanced in sympathy with the Wall street market, but lost fractions in the late trading. The closing was steady. Dollar exchange opened at $3.89½ and weakened later to $3.83½, closing at $3.84½.

Paris—Led by international issues, prices on the bourse declined with the exception of gold mining shares, which were higher. The market closed heavy.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse opened weak but closed firmer.

SILK MARKET.

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—Raw silk futures closed easy; sales, 2,690 bales. May, 143; July, 1.42; October, 1.41. Open market quotations (60-day basis). Shanghai steam filature 7/8 per cent seriplane, 20-22s, 1.37; Canton double extra "A" 14-16s, 1.17; Japanese special crack double extra 91 per cent seriplane, 13-15s, 1.62.

WHEAT VALUES DROP ON FRANCE'S STAND

Washington News of Paris Attitude Reacts on All Grain Prices.

Chicago, April 25 (A.P.).—Rapid loss of effervescence developed in the grain markets today, and Washington reports that France was balking received more notice from traders than inflation did.

Subsiding of inflation fever became increasingly a factor, with resultant price tumbles totaling at least 2½ cents a bushel for wheat. Participation of the public in the market rallied wheat prices at one time to equal with the high attained during yesterday's late rush to purchase, but buying of this character was not sustained, with the majority of professional traders watching what they called a natural reaction from the recent sharp advance.

Wheat closed weak at the day's bottom figures, 1⅞ to 2½ cents under yesterday's finish; corn, 1 to 1½ down; oats, ⅞ to 1 off, and provisions unchanged to 17 cents decline.

Loss in Securities.

Downturns in securities, cotton and silver and in British exchange preceded the opening of grain markets and did much to unsettle confidence, especially as to wheat. Houses that usually act for Eastern interests were conspicuous sellers early and late. About the single period when inflation buying displayed decided momentum was simultaneous with reports that a vote on the administration measure involving inflation as a direct issue, might be reached in the Senate today.

Temporary enlargement of speculative demand at this stage was accompanied by predictions in some quarters that July delivery of wheat would soon go to a peak of 80 cents a bushel. Plenty of wheat was for sale, however, on the transient upswing of prices, and then the market pursued an irregular downward course the remainder of the day. For the first time in 1933, December wheat contracts were dealt in today, and the initial price, 73 cents, was identical with the highest point September delivery has reached this year, but December fell with the rest of the market, and closed at 71¾.

Corn and oats duplicated the action of wheat.

COTTON PRICES CUT SLIGHTLY AT CLOSE

July Sells at 7.64 With General Market Down 1 to 5 Points.

New York, April 25 (A.P.).—While cotton lost its buoyancy today, the market held well in the face of heavy realizing, closing about unchanged.

Trade buying and commission house buying checked declines, but the bulges met substantial offerings including Southern selling. The general market closed very steady at net declines of 1 to 5 points.

The opening was 9 to 14 points lower under liquidation promoted by the circulation of May notices.

May sold off to 7.36 at the start, and October to 7.75, but these declines brought in trade and commission house buying. Trade interests seemed to be taking the May position, largely against sales of later months and that delivery sold up to 7.48 during the early trading while October rallied to 7.87 or back to yesterday's closing quotations.

Realizing continued, however, and the market worked back within 8 or 4 points of the early lows during the afternoon, firming toward the close.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was easier today under liquidation, and scattered local selling, promoted by the easiness of grain and lard. Final prices were 4 to 10 points net lower with sales of seventeen contracts. Bleachable spot closed 4.40, May 4.43, July 4.68, September 4.86, October 4.88.

NEW YORK.

SUGAR—Spot raw was quiet early today, but the undertone was easier with duty free tres for June arrival offered at 3.50 or 4 points below the price paid yesterday. Buyers, however, were inclined to hesitate and no sales were reported.

Futures opened unchanged to 2 points lower and later showed net losses of 3 to 6 points under heavy general liquidation promoted by more liberal offerings in the spot market and declines in other commodities. Reports that in view of the recent strength in sugar the Cuban segregation plan might be abandoned was also a factor, but after the early selling pressure subsided the market rallied partially on covering and trade buying. July contracts which declined from 1.37 to 1.33 rallied to 1.35, while December after selling at 1.42 rallied to 1.44. The market at midday was 2 to 4 points net lower.

In refined prices were unchanged at 4.50 for fine granulated with moderate withdrawals against old contracts.

COFFEE—Spot quiet; Rio No. 7, 8; Santos No. 4, 9¼; Rio futures closed easy; sales, 10,000 bags. May, *5.53; July, 5.51; September, *5.48; December, *5.45; March, *5.43. Santos futures closed easy; sales, 16,000 bags. May, *8.06; July, 7.85@7.96; September, 7.80; December, 7.69@7.70; March, *7.65.

NAZI STUDENTS ASK OUSTER OF RECTOR

26 Professors Dismissed as Germans Plan to Burn Taboo Literature.

Berlin, April 25 (A.P.).—Student demands for the resignation of the rector of Berlin University, the dismissal of 26 university professors, and plans for the "purging" of state and public libraries today advanced efforts of the new regime to "Germanize" cultural life in the Reich.

A conflict involving Edward Kohlrausch, rector magnificus of Berlin University reached the point late today where Nazi students demanded his resignation.

The trouble started when twelve theses, or pronouncements, against "un-German spirit" were displayed on a bulletin board and the rector objected to two of the pronouncements, namely that "whenever a Jew writes German he lies," and "we demand that Jewish works appear in Hebrew; if they appear in German they must be labeled translations."

The students issued a declaration expressing surprise that Dr. Kohlrausch did not resign and denying that the rector had any right to criticize them.

The Prussian minister of education today dismissed 18 professors in Frankfort University, 6 in Goettingen University and 2 in Marburg "because they are Jews or Leftists." He said other dismissals might follow.

Meanwhile, the Soviet embassy made representations regarding the arrest of 20 German employes of the German-Russian Petroleum Co. Monday and the search of the firm's offices.

A Nazi commission was put in charge of the headquarters with orders to weed out Communists from the company's personnel.

Retaliatory measures by the Soviet Union were considered likely, for the company supplied 30 per cent of Germany's oil products. An unprecedented situation was created by the fact that the company's shares are controlled in Russia.

23-Year-Old Romance Ends.

Los Angeles, April 25 (A.P.).—Twenty-three years of married life terminated today in the divorce of Marie Caselotti, opera singer, and Guido Hocke Caselotti.

RKO-KEITH'S

"THE WORLD GONE MAD." Majestic picturization of a story by Edward E. Lowe, featuring Pat O'Brien, Neil Hamilton, Evelyn Brent and Mary Brian, with Richard Tucker, Huntley Gordon, John Sainpolis, Louis Calhern and J. Carroll Naish. Directed by Christy Cabanne. Reviewed Tuesday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

By indirection, implication and a considerable stretch of the imagination, this interesting and well-cast melodrama might be catalogued as an indictment of "big business," but what it is primarily is a cleverly contrived newspaper - racketeer - police story, prolific in suicides, murders, bribery and that most ominous of the underworld's transgressions, the double-cross, which merely employs a gigantic and fraudulent stock manipulation as background and motivation.

One of the minor morals of the hectic tale seems to be that it is not always discreet to make ten dollars grow where there is only toil for one. No less clear does the picture make it that all one needs to bring about the demise of a distasteful district attorney is to carry twenty or thirty thousand-dollar bills around in his pocket to be handed to the big speakeasy and shotgun man at the opportune moment.

The technique of the subsequent procedure seems to be that the big s. and s. man keeps ten grand for himself and then telephones the errand down the line to the boys, who whack up the dough in constantly decreasing amounts until the trigger man finally gets himself only $1,000 for doing the nastiest part of the job, and a fair shot at the hot squat. It hardly seems worth it.

However, this is the sort of thing that the shady speculator sets afoot. His sinister projects are complicated slightly by the fact that the new district attorney is engaged to the daughter of the honest financier, who is president of the wildcatter's company, and the roommate of an ace reporter who knows no god but news and fears nothing but being scooped.

So don't you see that it is inevitable that the reporter will jockey the crooks into a tough spot, save the life of his pal, the new d. a., and have the headquarters men planted just outside the door, while the poor, old honest president of the Cromwell Investment Co. is taking his predatory boy friend for a nice automobile ride right up to the cowcatcher of the Twentieth Century Limited coming head-on at at least 60 miles an hour. With the roadster making 80, that makes an impact of 140 miles per hour, which is enough to shake up anybody, even a hard guy like Gaines!

Anyhow, that is the way it comes out. A little maudlin toward the end, perhaps, but pretty suspenseful and thrilling, at that.

The direction, at times, is a little jumpy, and once or twice I thought the young district attorney was taking a good deal for granted, but who cares? Especially since Pat O'Brien gives one of his most amusing, most wisecracking and most assured impersonations of a "Front Page" newshound; Neil Hamilton is such a good-looking district attorney and Louis Calhern and Evelyn Brent such a swell pair of mobsters. It is probably safe to say that you have never seen Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Calhern better—or Evelyn Brent, for that matter. Mary Brian, John Sainpolis Richard Tucker, Huntley Gordon and the long list of others in the cast are just so-so, or thereabouts.

Among the supplementary attractions of the new bill will be found a "Lambs Gambol" feature, "Hear 'Em and Weep," directed by Joseph Santley, in which are revived many of the old-time popular songs by an extensive roster of stars among whom Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit, Jack Hazzard, Irene Franklin, Alexander Gray, Percy Wenrich and Harry Short are conspicuous. For those out of their theatrical kindergarten, there is a real punch in this subject.

A new release of John Hix's Post feature, "Strange as It Seems," an Aesop Fable cartoon, "Runaway Blackie," not quite up to the Aesop standard, and the Pathe News complete two hours that pass quickly.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

WITH conflicting reports hurtling in all directions as to Greta Garbo's present whereabouts and future intentions, it comes to light through those devious, but usually dependable channels that pour a steady stream of authentic news of the amusement world into the pages of Variety, that Garbo did not sign a new long-term contract with Metro - Goldwyn-Mayer prior to departing these shores on her long vacation in Sweden.

Greta Garbo

According to Mr. Silverman's latest advices, Garbo signed for two pictures at a flat sum. The first of these is understood to be "Queen Christina," an original story by Berthold Viertel, adapted to the screen by Robert E. Sherwood, author of "The Road to Rome," "Reunion in Vienna," and numerous other sprightly works for the theater.

It is further stated that the M-G-M studio is hot on the heels of Josef von Sternberg to direct "Christina," an eventuation that probably would ultimately result in the Swedish Miss Garbo and the German Miss Dietrich's tangling like the Nationals and the Yankees on a belligerent Tuesday.

In the meantime, it seems to be anybody's guess as to whether Garbo is on that freighter gradually drawing nearer and nearer the fillum colony, or whether she is deluding other localities with her trick costumes and Scotland Yard disguises.

Wouldn't it be swell publicity if she turned out to be Kreuger, the missing match king!

Speaking of strange young people, but not necessarily of the distaff persuasion, if you should happen upon a youth who gives the impression of being a college soph, tearing telephone directories into quarters and eighths, snapping logging chains as if they were twine string, or bending iron bars around his wrists like tinfoil, that would probably be Arthur Santell.

This young man, at the age of 20, not only tears one telephone book into quarters, but, to show you what kind of a guy HE is, tears two directories into eighths. Vacationing in Washington for the nonce, or maybe the entire week, for all I know, Mr. Santell today will demonstrate his peculiar prowess before members of the Rotary, Lions and Optimists Clubs.

There is nothing in his appearance to give the impression of superior strength. His home is in Hollywood and he picked up his strange knack while attending school there—a knack, by the way, that is so fully developed that he was recently booked for a tour of personal appearances over the RKO time.

Beginning this morning, 1,000 Washington motion picture fans will receive autographed copies of Benny Davis' new song hit, "Looking Forward," which he is singing at Loew's Fox Theater, where the best act he has ever had is toplining the vaudeville portion of the bill.

It was after viewing the picture of the same name, in which Lionel Barrymore and Lewis Stone were seen at the Fox last week, that Benny, author of "Make Believe" and a list of other popular songs longer than you have been in town, conceived the idea of composing a song, like the picture, to be named after President Roosevelt's recent book.

But to get back to the point, the autographed copies of the song will be given away in the lobby of Loew's Fox as long as they last, beginning this morning, on the first-come-first-served plan.

To give you a rough idea of about how long they may be expected to last, it may be noted that Loew's Fox seats approximately 3,500 people!

And as long as we are speaking of Loew's Fox and music, you might as well know now that Loew's Washington Theaters' Cadet band, under the direction of Capt. J. B. McKenzie, will participate in the band competition to be staged in Griffith Stadium, otherwise known as the National-Yankee boxing arena, on the evening of May 4, according to announcement made last night by City Manager Carter Barron.

The band contest is being sponsored by the local committee in charge of Boys' Week. A cup will be awarded the winning band by the Washington Board of Trade and Mr. Barron is already dusting off a place on the shelf in his office!

When the Drama Guild of Washington spreads its fifth annual banquet at Barker Hall in the Y. W. C. A., Seventeenth and K streets, tonight, the following program will be presented:

Afterthoughts on the opening of the National Theater Players in "Biddle Me This," Monday night: Ona Munson, trig in a series of smart costumes, seems to have improved as a sure study, her initial performance being letter-perfect and wholly charming . . . The letter-perfect part was not quite true on the occasion of her first appearance last year. . . There are a good many more mild oaths scattered about through the script of the Rubin play than one is accustomed to hear from the chaste lips of stock players. . . Or have times changed?. . . The nature of the first scene of the play and the precipitate entrance of a whole flock of characters at the very opening of the second scene effectually choked off any applause that might reasonably have been expected to greet the first curtain and the first entrance of a group of old favorites. . . The customers with the iron hands didn't get in their first licks until the initial appearance of Mrs. Adelaide Hibbard . . . From then on, there was plenty clacquing. . . The characters played by Donald Woods, Forrest Orr, Romaine Callender, Freddie Sherman, Ona Munson, Leona Powers and Karl Nielson were played in the screen version by Victor McLaglen, Edmund Lowe, Henry Stephenson, Richard Arlen, Adrienne Ames, Noel Francis and Ralph Ince. . . Mrs. Ward, played by Kathryn Givney, was done for the cameras by Elizabeth Patterson and Mrs. Hibbard's role of the cook was dropped. . . The movie settings were hardly superior to Charles Squires,' the difference of the two media taken into consideration. . . Wonder what it was Donald Woods and Forrest Orr kept tugging away at, out of that bottle?

But then, the chances are it wasn't, so what difference does it make!

Latin-American Concert Tonight

Twelve selections by Latin-American composers that have not previously been played in the United States will be presented by the United Service Orchestra at the annual spring concert of Latin-American music in the Hall of the Americas in the Pan-American Union tonight.

Three instrumental soloists will participate in the program, utilizing the marimba, vibraphone and cornet. Assisting artists will be Clarita Sanchez, Mexican soprano, and Rodolfo Ducal, Argentine tenor. In the last portion of the program the orchestra will play a selection by the famous Cuban composer, Amadeo Roldan, as well as a joropo by Pedro E. Gutierrez, of Venezuela, which will introduce native instruments.

SITES BEING PICKED FOR FOREST CAMPS

Conservation Corps Men Will Begin Work in Woodland Tracts.

Representatives of the commander of this corps area and of the Maryland forester's office yesterday were concluding their inspection of five suggested reforestation areas, with a view of moving men of the Federal Conservation Corps into camps in Maryland.

One of the recommended camps will be located at Fort Washington, and the men will work in the two State forest reservations in southern Maryland. Another suggested camp would be located at Fort George G. Meade, the men working in the Patapsco State forest. Other recommended sites are Potomac and Savage River in Garrett County, Green Ridge in Alleghany County, and Camp Ritchie in Frederick and Washington Counties.

Meanwhile, 215 Baltimore recruits in the Conservation Corps were finishing their training at Fort Humphreys. It is likely that this contingent will be moved into one of the State forests if the suggested sites are approved. Officers of the Fort Humphreys detail include Capt. John P. Dean, Cavalry Reserve, 1408 Webster street northwest; Capt. Richard H. M. Pearson, of Philadelphia; Second Lieut. Samuel Hardy Duerson, of Roanoke; and Second Lieut. Fendall P. Williams, of Clifton Forge, Va.

The Maryland sites are being examined by Lieut. Col. Ned B. Rehkopf, assistant chief of the corps area staff, and Karl E. Pheiffer, assistant State forester. Members of the corps area staff are also inspecting 21 recommended camps in Pennsylvania.

Sign Regulations Become Official

D. C. Commissioners Approve Modifications of Outdoor Display.

The District Commissioners yesterday adopted all the proposed modifications in municipal sign regulations considered at a recent public hearing. The changes are intended to bring about more orderliness in the display of outdoor advertising.

The changes restrict the placing of new signs on any but the front walls of a building unles the wall is on a corner and abuts public street or else on an alley and otherwise conforms with the signs regulations.

Roof signs are redefined to include any signs that extends any distance above a roof. Signs in the residential districts are restricted to 40 square feet and must not project beyond the building line. No roof sign may be erected above the building height limits set by the zoning regulations and the total area of all such signs on a building must not exceed 100 square feet.

LOCAL RELIEF COST $1,400,000 IN YEAR

11,000 Families Cared For, Rev. Joseph Amon Tells Chest Forum.

Washington spent $1,400,000 for care of the destitute in 1932 as compared with $300,000 in 1929, the Rev. Joseph Amon told members of the Community Chest Speakers Forum at the Y. W. C. A., last night. The Rev. Mr. Amon discussed "Statistics of 1932" in relation to the general topic of "Public and Private Relief."

The speaker stated that care was provided for 11,000 families during 1932, of which nearly 6,000 were families who had never applied for relief before. He also discussed the number of homeless transient families that were given some sort of care in Washington during that time.

Miss Patricia Morss spoke on "Normal Child Placing," and led the discussion on this topic. She spoke of the necessity of adequate investigation of homes in which children are to be placed and stated that not only must the organizations be assured that the family is getting a child which it will want but must also take into consideration whether the child is getting a home that it will want in later years.

Mrs. Belle Simmons spoke and led a discussion on "Family Welfare in Private Agencies," pointing out that the private agencies in Washington have always carried a greater burden in comparison with public relief than those in any other city. She pointed out the shortage of funds due to the failure of the Community Chest to reach its goal and said that more public relief is absolutely necessary that families now legally the responsibility of the Board of Public Welfare can be transferred to that organization and thus relieve the burden on private organizations.

D. H. Reed, of the emergency relief committee of the Board of Public Welfare, spoke on "Emergency Unemployment Relief," and Miss Beatrice Hodgson, of the Travelers Aid Society, discussed "The Transient Problem."

Dr. Perkins announced that the next forum would be held on May 23, with "Our Health Program" as the general topic.

Law Class Hears Cardozo Message

In a message to the senior morning class of the Georgetown University Law School, read at their annual dinner last night, Associate Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo of the United States Supreme Court said he "envied" them their opportunity to help guide future events which will bring about great changes in the law.

Owing to his inability to attend the dinner, Justice Cardozo's message was delivered by Bernard J. Donoghue, chairman of the banquet committee. The justice urged the class to not become discouraged in the early years of their careers, for success would be theirs if they plodded away.

Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, was the principal speaker at the dinner, in the Shoreham Hotel. Representatives Wesley Lloyd, of Washington, and John Taber, of New York, also addressed the class.

WEDNESDAY APRIL 26, 1933 SPORTS

WARFARE BREAKS OUT ANEW AS YANKS ROUT NATS

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

EN ROUTE to Boston with the Nats, April 25.—The Washington Ball Club's special was a humming, buzzing bee hive of conversation, opinion and discussion anent the proceedings at Griffith Stadium this afternoon. Their opinions of the Yankees in general and Ben Chapman in particular were unanimous.

Even the traditional bridge and poker games, which claim the attention of the bulk of the ball players on these overnight rides, went by the boards in favor of the red-hot topic of the evening—the red-hot ball game at Griffith Stadium this afternoon.

Griffith Supports Myer.

Griffith supported Myer in his contention that Chapman went far out of his way on the baselines to interfere with the throw to first base and that the Yangee outfielder came into the bag abnormally high, against the clearly defined rules.

"The base runner is entitled to make the bag on a clean slide," said Griffith, "but we have rules for interference with the arms, legs and body and Chapman had no business coming into the base on the far side of the bag, where Myer was standing after taking the throw. The umpires should have called Lazzeri out at first for Chapman's interference, and tossed Chapman out of the game at the same time they rendered the decision that he was out."

Martin Show's Myer's Cut Shoe.

Trainer Mike Martin was gadding about, displaying Myer's badly torn shoe that Chapman's spikes ripped from the heel around to the sole in the play at second base and the extremely florid Mr. Martin expressed great wonder that Buddy hadn't lost a hoof in the mix-up.

Griffith tonight said he was waiting an official decision on the suspension of Myer from League President William Harridge today and that his action would be based on the severity of the penalty that Harridge metes out. He would not say just what action he expected from Harridge, but cited the league rules to illustrate that if the penalty were unreasonable he would have recourse to protest.

Chapman Looking for Trouble, Say Nats.

The Washington players were unanimous in their opinion that Chapman was looking for trouble, but any action by Griffith will be based chiefly on the fact that it was Chapman's aggressiveness in the Nats' dugout that incited the riot, which is a more severe offense than any fisticuffs that could happen on the ball field.

It seems that the boys picked a poor time to stage their little brawl, what with President Harridge on the warpath with a public pronouncement no later than last week that the players must desist from the use of fists.

The truth is that the brawl did not become a riot until Chapman and Whitehill had their scrap in the dugout. Out there in the field it was purely a matter between men in uniform, but with Chapman battling it out with the Nats in close proximity to the grand stands the public was not long in taking a part.

Chased out of the game after the fourth inning proceedings, Buddy Myer dressed and visited his wife, recovering from an appendicitis operation in Emergency Hospital. She expressed surprise at his presence so early in the afternoon. "Just a little argument with the umpire," Buddy told her.

Joe Cronin was the first to grab Chapman when the latter got to his feet and started after Myer. Gomez grabbed Cronin and Luke Sewell grabbed Gomez, while both umpires and the rest of the Washington club grabbed Myer.

Chapman and Whitehill were battling it out by themselves for several moments before the rest of the Nats and Yankees joined the melee. Washington players explained their delay, saying they thought it was Al Schacht that Chapman was slugging.

Sarron Earns Draw With Paul

By DAVE HERMAN.

LITHE-LIMBED Tommy Paul, former N. B. A. featherweight champion, throwing his punches and whirling around the ring with the speed of a Buffalo express train, collided with the Dixie Limited, Pete Sarron, last night at Portner's Arena, and after crashing away at one another for 24 minutes, while a crowd of 2,000 spectators looked on pop-eyed from amazement, left the ring with victory hanging in the balance.

Perhaps the most sensational and blood-tingling featherweight fight in Alexandria fistic history was climaxed with a draw verdict, with the camps of the two battlers well satisfied and the old boxing faithful cheering the decision to the echo.

Paul Sizes Up Rival At Start.

Paul, first sizing up his opponent and boxing cautiously, gathered momentum once he passed the first round, and found himself fighting first on the offensive and later on the defensive, so quickly did the fortunes of the scrappers change during this torrid 8-round encounter.

The former champion's lethal left, that clouted him to the top against the Nation's most noted featherweights, buried deep into the Dixie pride's midriff and kidneys time and again, and also found its mark on Sarron's jaw, although his adversary, a rugged, swarthy, stockily-built fellow, absorbed the punches and returned the fire skillfully.

Sarron, keyed to a pitch of fighting fury, put up what is believed to be the greatest battle of his colorful career. Faced with the task of outsmarting a fighter who unlimbers his punches in much the same fashion as he does, the Syrian answered his rival's charge and, in several of the rounds that were chalked up in his favor, spun Paul around with peppery rights and lefts that certainly took the steam out of the New Yorker.

In their anxiety to punch, both Paul and Sarron missed repeatedly, but as quickly as they whiffed the ozone, came tearing back with a flurry of blows that made the spectators forget the miscues.

GROVE BOWS TO RED SOX BY 6 TO 4

Knocked From Box; Weiland Holds Foxx Hitless.

BOSTON, April 25 (A.P.).—The Boston Red Sox handed Bob Grove, Athletic's pitching ace, his first defeat of the season today while beating the A's, 6 to 4.

Grove yielded nine hits and six runs before he retired at the end of the fifth inning, three of the runs coming in the fifth. Young Bill Dietrich, who relieved Grove, held the Sox scoreless the remainder of the game and allowed only one hit.

Weiland hurled scoreless ball for Boston until the seventh, when he was nicked for two runs. Again, in the eighth, the A's tallied twice. Weiland, however, silenced Jimmy Foxx, the A's siege gun. The great slugger failed to get a hit in four times at the plate.

That's Baseball, Chapman Says After Fight at Game

BEN CHAPMAN said he was "playing the game" yesterday when reporters found him dressing in the Yankees' locker room.

"That's baseball and always has been, breaking up double plays. That's what I'm in there for when I'm running. If this game is ping pong I don't know anything about it. I'm playing baseball."

A ripe-red cut across his cheek and a badly tousled haircomb were not the only evidences that the Yankee left fielder had been in a battle. The upper part of his body bore several dull-red bruises inflicted by Washington players and the spectators in the dugout melee.

Asked about his battle with Whitehill that started on the dugout steps, Chapman declared that nobody would have stood for the remarks of the Washington pitcher.

"I knew whose dugout I was in and I knew what was going to happen if I punched him, but I let it go. I knew I had to cover up then and I did I'm not hurt. What would you say if somebody said that to you?"

A reporter discreetly replied that it would all depend on whose dugout the reporter was in.

"We'll Get 'Em Later," Is Comment of Cronin

"They had their day today. We'll get 'em in New York."

That's what Manager Joe Cronin had to say yesterday in the locker room after the riotous battle between the Nats and the Yankees.

Whether Cronin was referring to the fisticuffs or the 16-to-0 score could not be ascertained, but the youthful manager of the Nats was grim and defiant under his shower.

Griffith Says . . .

"I do not approve of rough stuff on the playing field, but, in a way, I don't blame Myer for attacking Chapman," said Clark Griffith, president of the Nationals. "Just the day before, Chapman spiked Myer on the shin, going out of his way to cut him. The Yankees are repeating their 1932 tricks. Last July we were only seven games behind them. Dickey did not take a poke at Roy Johnson, who had upset him just the day before, but he waited until he got here and then took a cowardly poke at Reynolds and broke his jaw.

"The Yankees were simply sore and made this latest attack because we had just beaten them two in a row. Chapman simply took it out on Myer and went out of his way to do it. I've been looking for trouble and was not surprised at Chapman's action. I don't think Myer was to blame as they've been after him for years.

"That Chapman spiked him deliberately is shown by the fact that it was not the foot Myer used to touch the bag with but the other one, which wasn't in the play. I'm sorry the affair happened but can hardly blame Myer. He probably 'saw red' at Chapman's unwarranted tactics and temporarily forgot himself."

Ruppert Says . . .

New York, April 25 (U.P.).—Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, was highly indignant tonight over the reported treatment of his baseball players at Washington today.

The colonel was particularly incensed over the report that Washington's second baseman, Charley Myer, had kicked Ben Chapman, while Chapman was still on the ground after sliding second.

"If the reports are true," Col. Ruppert told the United Press, "Myer should be kicked himself—kicked right out of baseball. It's certainly not a manly thing to do, and not in accord with baseball's code, to kick a player when he is on the ground."

"Some reports say Chapman spiked Myer when he slid into second," Ruppert continued. "Whether he did or not, seems to me to be beside the question. Chapman is not the type of player to spike any one intentionally. Every one knows he's a fast runner and a great base stealer, and the baseman should have protected himself from being spiked as he slid in."

POST MORTEMS . . .

Two Washington and Lee pitchers, Sauerbraun and Jarrett, held V. P. I. hitless yesterday, but barely managed to win the ball game by a 3-2 score . . . Jack Tulloch, the king of Alexandria, yesterday celebrated a birthday . . . he did not say whether he has stopped counting them yet . . . after the smoke of battle cleared away in Griffith Stadium, someone inquired as to the whereabouts of Babe Ruth . . . he was there or thereabouts but too smart to risk getting separated from that $52,000 yearly stipend . . . It will be a long time before Joe Savoldi comes back here . . . he's shifted to Curley circuit . . . and Dick Shikat has shifted to the Bowser wheel . . . that's why he's back . . . it was some kind of a trade . . . Primo Carnera was supposed to have sailed yesterday from Genoa for America . . . but he missed his boat by two hours . . . It might have been love that detained him . . . but he says love is the bunk . . . twenty-nine English thoroughbreds start today in the Two Thousand Guineas annual race . . . it's the first big race on the flat held in Great Britain . . . Bob Barnett, Chevy Chase pro, shot a 74 Monday in the Middle Atlantic semimonthly tournament and had five three-putt greens . . .

SOX TO FACE BURKE OR LINKE

Nats Off for Boston for Two Games; Here Sunday.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

AS the Nationals boarded a train for Boston last night, Manager Joe Cronin and his charges could talk or think of little but the happenings of the afternoon when Buddy Myer, thinking Ben Chapman was trying to cut him down at second, took matters in his own hands and was doing some tall chastising when the umpires and players of both teams stepped in.

Cronin did find time, though, to say that the last two games with the New Yorkers had played havoc with his mound staff and that he had not yet made up his mind as to his starting boxman for today against the Red Sox. It probably will be Bob Burke, although there is a chance that Ed Linke, who has shown much in practice, will be given a shot.

Time was when the Red Sox were not taken seriously—but not now. Their two victories in three starts here earlier in the season, plus the fact that they beat Lefty Grove yesterday, has boosted their stock fully 1,000 per cent and the Nats are expecting some real battles there.

Only two games will be played on this trip, with the Yankee feud to be renewed by the Nats in New York Friday and Saturday, and the Mackmen listed for a game here on the Sabbath, after which the Nats hike Westward ho.

Skipper Joe Cronin slipped over a fast one on "Marse" Joe McCarthy, of the Yankees, yesterday when he announced Ed Linke as his overnight pitching selection. He figured that the New York manager would read of this selection at his hotel and would shift to a rookie himself, telling Charley Ruffing to go out to the park and take a good, stiff workout so as to be ready for the Mackmen today. And McCarthy fell for the trap, giving Russell Van Atta, rookie southpaw from St. Paul, his first major start.

McCarthy does not arrive at the stadium with his players and by the time he showed up, Ruffin already had taken a stiff drill and so was not available when Mac discovered that Monte Weaver was to hurl for the Nats.

But, with Van Atta pitching five-hit ball for the Yanks, McCarthy had the last laugh after all.

"General" Al Crowder paid a hurried visit to Trainer Mike Martin's sanctorium before yesterday's game for an ice pack treatment for his left ankle. It seems that while outfielding in early practice, he was unable to get his shin out of the way of a hard-hit liner.

Raspberries were showered upon Babe Ruth when Weaver fanned him in the first.

pummeled him royally about the head and body before police could rescue him.

Engaging prominently in the melee were Chapman's roommate, Gerald Walker, and Vernon Gomez, Yankee pitcher, with Walker battling vainly to reach the side of the outfielder, exchanging blows with both police and civilians before he was subdued. Gomez, meanwhile, was engaging in a private battle with a policeman who held him securely.

Called by radio after an anonymous message to the Second Precinct Station, a squadron of police drove into the Stadium to augment the dozen officers on regular duty, and their efforts were confined to shooing the swarming and belligerent fans from the playing field until another small-sized riot broke out in the right-field pavilion seats, whereupon the police dragged forth a colored fan.

Yanks Pummel Weaver.

Resuming play after order had been restored, although both players and fans were still on the hot scent of further eruptions, the Yankees, who had held a 1-0 lead when the riot started, proceeded to pummel Weaver and his two relief pitchers for 21 hits to win the ball game, 16 to 0, while young Russell Van Atta was shutting out the Nats.

Chapman emerged from his battle with a long, livid cut across his cheek and was bruised badly about the body, but under the shower bath he was smiling grimly and uncomplaining. Whitehill, too, bore a cut on his face which was quickly treated by Trainer Mike Martin. Both players dressed and remained in their locker rooms to the end of the game.

Umpire-in-Chief Moriarty banished both Myer and Chapman from the game immediately after the fireworks at second base and following the dugout riot he ordered Whitehill and Walker off the field.

All four of the players banished face possible suspensions of 30 days and fines of $1,000 each under the league ruling which was cited again last week-end by League President William Harridge, who reiterated the heavy penalties for fisticuffs on the field. It was the penalty that was meted out to Bill Dickey, of the Yankees, after his assault on Carl Reynolds here last July.

Umpires Moriarty and and Geisel last night submitted a telegraphic report to President Harridge, who is expected to suspend temporarily all of the four players pending a full investigation of the proceedings. But both Myer and Whitehill last night accompanied the Nats to Boston, where they play two games before meeting the Yankees in New York later in the week.

The spark that set off the fisticuffs occurred in the fourth inning when Chapman all but spilled Second Baseman Myer with a spread-eagle slide into the bag in an attempt to check Myer's throw to first for a double play. Chapman's spikes tore a wide gash in Myer's shoe and Myer halted his throw and turned to gaze at Chapman, hotly incensed and with fire in his eye.

Chapman Kicked Several Times.

With Chapman still at his feet about to pick himself up out of the dust, Myer kicked him in the back several times prodding him with his foot for the most part, and when Chapman arose the Nats' second baseman began to belabor him with both fists, while Chapman launched a counter assault.

All those in the New York and Washington dugouts rushed out to second base at the first sign of hostilities and gathered in angry groups around the battling ball players, who had been separated by the herculean efforts of Umpire Geisel. Amid much choice language by the players of both teams, Managers McCarthy and Cronin and both umpires lugged Chapman and Myer away from each other and finally dispersed the large group at second base. The police had not moved to interfere in a purely players' squabble at this point.

Chapman was taken to the New York dugout amid the booes of the fans and Myer also was ordered from the field, Johnny Kerr substituting for him. A few moments later, Chapman, with Walker at his side, made his way across the field to the Washington dugout that admits him to the Yankees' dressing room.

Whitehill Struck In Face.

A running fire of hot language greeted him from the Washington bench, but he was oblivious until he reached the top step leading into the dressing room, where Pitcher Whitehill was leaning in his customary place. One remark passed from Whitehill to Chapman. Chapman led with his right to the face and the two then grappled, with Whitehill falling to the ground undermost.

Then the players of both teams, spectators and the police took a hand in the fisticuffs which delayed the game 20 minutes.

The start of the riot was the end of the ball game as far as strictly baseball competition was concerned. Weaver, unsteadied, blew up with a loud noise, permitted three hits in a row before he was removed and the Yankees made six hits and four runs off him and Al Thomas, his successor before the inning was over.

While the Yankees were making 21 hits and scoring in every inning after the second, with homers by Lou Gehrig and Tony Lazzeri featuring the barrage, young Van Atta, the Penn State graduate, was making an impressive debut in big league competition, allowing only five hits and never being in serious danger after Kuhel's strikeout left three men stranded in the first inning.

Nats Can Ill Afford to Lose Myer.

The Nats would thus be the heaviest sufferers, for they can not replace their regular second-sacker as easily as the Yanks could find a substitute for Chapman. Johnny Kerr, a good player, but not in Myer's class, is the only one Cronin could call on, while either Byrd or Dixie Walker probably could turn in just about as good a job as Chapman in the Yankee outfield.

Of course, President Harridge's action will be based on the reports of Umpires George Moriarty and Harry Geisel. The latter was right on top of the play in which Chapman all but cut down Myer and he no doubt saw that the base-runner's spiking attempt came pretty close to being deliberate. Should he so report to the league head, the latter may take the view that Buddie's attack was not without some justification and be more lenient with him, especially in view of the fact that Myer never has been in any other trouble since he came up to the American League.

Reports from Chicago last night were to the effect that President Harridge had no comments to make until he received the umpires' reports and that he did not expect to make a decision of any kind until today.

MR. KHAYYAM CAPTURES FEATURE RACE AT HAVRE DE GRACE.

5-1 Shot Wins By Half a Length

Dressner Shows Way to Large Juvenile Field in Opener.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, April 25.—Mr. Khayyam, son of Omar Khayyam and Alice Foster, as a 2-year-old defeated such as Poppyman and Keep Out. Today they paraded him to the post and I understand the Catawba Stable gave fair warning that the colt was ready. However, few appeared to believe it and the bulk of the betting was piled on the speedy Rush Hour, from the S. W. Labrot holdings.

The running of the race proved that Mr. Khayyam is in top shape but it was not the favorite, Rush Hour, that he had to beat. It was Trace Call, an outsider in both selections and betting. This Audley Farm colt was only a half length behind at the finish with Mr. Khayyam's stablemate, Good Advice, a nose away, to take the show.

Money Horses Pay Big Rewards.

With the entry running first and third, holders of across-the-board tickets on the pair were paid $12.60, $6.80, $9.60. Trace Call, a 17-to-1 shot, paid $20.40 for the place.

Good Advice and Trace Call battled it out for the pace-setting position for half of the 6 furlongs, while Mills and Mr. Khayyam watched the struggle from third position. In the meanwhile, Rush Hour went into a pocket which may, or may not, have cost him the race. In the stretch, Mills, who had given Mr. Khayyam a breather, came up with a rush and fairly flew over the finish line.

The race was run in 1:11 3-5 over a lightning-fast track. Racing conditions were again ideal and another crowd in the neighborhood of 8,000 witnessed the action.

Dressner Scores Over Juveniles.

Dressner, a Master Charlie juvenile, which was educated at New Orleans last winter, showed his heels to the field that sought the opening purse at 4½ furlongs. Guided by the veteran Pascuma, Dressner overcame a blocking on the far turn to wear down and pass the favored Bittybit in the stretch. The Bradley gelding was second with Macadam third.

The Pompey influence which has hovered over the meeting extended to a fast track today with Johnny Bejshak bringing Pomposity from far back to take a 6-furlong decision from Sonny Workman and Crack Flyer. Flying Hour, a longshot which raced the legs off Crack Flyer for some 4 furlongs, was third.

Character made good for the favorite players in the third race, but Hanford was forced to ride the gelded son of Cariaris out to take the purse from Glorify with an apprentice, G. Windle up. Third money went to the fast-closing Wise Count. Glorify appeared to have been shot out of the barrier and was two lengths ahead of the field after 20 yards. It was not until the far turn that Hanford brought Character up and then the battle started.

Wise Count Just Misses At Finish.

Hanford and his mount caught the flying pace-setter at the quarter pole and it is well that he didn't let up for Wise Count came up with a closing rush that would have taken the purse in another jump or two. Character paid even money.

Bellizzi gave Night Patrol a million dollar ride to take the purse from a large field in the fifth race. The little Italian-American youth brought Night Patrol from ninth on the backstretch to break up a duel between Royal Ruffin and Backgammon. Fervid set a dizzy pace but faded when the real test came.

In the sixth, it was Coucci who starred in the saddle. He brought Even Up into a stretch battle with Bide A Wee and took a nose decision. Tazewell was third.

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAVRE DE GRACE, APRIL 25.

Character, which brought the boy one of his three winners today, was sold by the B. B. Stable following the race to the Anall Stable at a price not revealed. And Harry Richards, who has been begging for mounts hereabouts, finally drew Good Advice and was set down for cutting the colt across the field at the start—not for carrying out Trace Call, something for which he was blamed in the press box. Tomorrow's card is one of the best of the young season. And I believe I've done it justice. BILL.

FIRST RACE—TOYTIME ran a brilliant race the first time out to take a place award and should improve off that effort. And I'm taking one out of that same field that may make a good showing if the track stays fast. I mean TAUTON. This is a long-legged juvenile. DREEL has been scratched to await a field of this sort and may be third.

SECOND RACE—CRAPSHOOTER is both fit and honest. Shifts from the route to a sprint, something most horsemen don't like, but I can't pass up condition here. SNAPLOCK has class and all that. SUN ALLEY is a fair sort, but might need an off track.

THIRD RACE—BOSCOBEL'S last was so impressive it is difficult to place her anywhere but on the top of the heap in this field that shapes up somewhat tougher. HAPPEN showed signs of nearly top form and will be ready to make a race of it. MANYA for the show.

FOURTH RACE—BONANZA defeated a field of maidens here and lived up to advance notices as one of the best juveniles stabled in this section. Must improve on that last, however. WISE DAUGHTER breaks from No. 1 post and will be hustling all the way. Is the one to beat. If the upset materializes, I look for the STAND PAT to do it. REBEL YELL is the clockers' special.

FIFTH RACE—SARADA has had the benefit of one race here and was not worked any too hard. May upset the dope in this if given a real ride. REPAID was hit with a clod in that last race and may run his race tomorrow. CROWNING GLORY'S trials indicate at least show.

SIXTH RACE—DARK SECRET appears to have found a comfortable race here that I can't see the stable or Mills passing up. Is the class. SPRINGSTEEL to beat the others for the place. SWEEPING LIGHT closed fast behind that Finite sprint the other day and may make a money appearance.

SEVENTH RACE—KNEE HIGH can take this, as I have said before, if not allowed to drop too far out of it. MATADI is a good place bet. Can't put SYRIAC on top. If the Fitzgerald crowd decides it's the day, however, SYRIAC might romp home.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DRESSNER, $12.20, $5.40, $3.20; BITTYBIT, $3.60, $2.60; MACADAM, $3.20.

DRESSNER, blocked when attempting to move through on the inside at the stretch turn, was taken up mildly, and coming around the pacemakers with good speed, was up in the final sixteenth mile. BITTYBIT, hard ridden while forced to race on the outside, wore MACADAM down, but could not stay with the winner when caught. MACADAM displayed good speed from the barrier, saved ground and easily held the others safe. FORTIFICATION away quickly, closed stoutly when fully in his best stride. AIRY SPIRIT was in tight quarters most of the journey. HORATIO HUGH came through a narrow passage during the stretch run to close courageously. BATAILLE was outrun. BOSTON IDLE raced very green.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800. For maiden 3-year-olds. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:00. Off at 3:06. Winner, W. R. Coe's b. c., by Pompey—Some More. Two-dollar mutuels paid—POMPOSITY, $10.80, $4.60, $3.40; CRACK FLYER, $4.40, $3.20; FLYING HOUR, $5.60.

POMPOSITY, favored by the fast early pace, responded stoutly when coming to the outside of the leaders, and continuing stoutly, gained command in the final 50 yards. CRACK FLYER, vigorously ridden to shake off FLYING HOUR, came courageously nearing the finish. FLYING HOUR, rushed hard right from the break, had too much taken out of her and she weakened in the closing furlong while under punishment. SURETY improved his position gradually after being in close quarters in the first half mile. CRUISING was never able to threaten the leaders. MECAT was outrun. GOLLY had good speed after being slow to begin. HOLLAND showed nice speed for a half mile.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:35. Off at 3:35½. Winner, B. B. Stable's b. or. br. g. (3), by Carlans—Gayoso. Trained by H. Jacobs. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23, 0:46 2-5, 1:11 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHARACTER, $4.00, $3.00, $2.40; GLORIFY, $6.60, $3.60; WISE COUNT, $3.80.

CHARACTER, away in slower fashion than usual, went stoutly to reach a forward position, came around the field wider, wore GLORIFY down and then drew out steadily approaching the finish. GLORIFY broke in stride, opened up a commanding early lead and displayed good speed until overtaken. WISE COUNT closed full of run after being outrun in the first half mile. ILCHESTER, strongly ridden, tired after five furlongs. BROAD MEADOWS was crowded and pinched back when leaving the back stretch and was unable to recover thereafter. BURNING FEET lacked early speed. MONEL tired gradually after a fast half mile.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; allowances. The Glen Oaks. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:05. Off at 4:07. Winner, Catawba Farm's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MR. KHAYYAM (Catawba Farm entry), $12.60, $6.80, $9.60; TRACE CALL, $20.40, $17.00; GOOD ADVICE (Catawba Farm entry), $9.60.

MR. KHAYYAM, given a brushing spell after quarter mile, closed stoutly when straightened into the home stretch and was up in the final 70 yards. TRACE CALL, a keen factor and showing good speed, wore GOOD ADVICE down, but was not good enough to withstand the winner. GOOD ADVICE, rushed up sharply to assume a brief lead midway of the turn, saved ground thereafter and held on stoutly. RUSH HOUR could not improve his position at any stage. WISE ANNE made a mild bid when rounding the turn. OKAPI was racing strongly at the end. ALGERIA was not persevered with at any stage. OLD BALDY tired early.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:40. Off at 4:44½. Winner, C. O. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NIGHT PATROL, $8.60, $4.00, $2.80; ROYAL RUFFIN, $3.40, $2.60; BACKGAMMON, $3.80.

NIGHT PATROL, far back for the first five furlongs, was steered very wide when moving into contention, but closed with belated speed to catch ROYAL RUFFIN inside the final furlong. ROYAL RUFFIN entered contention with a rush, displaced FERVID, and held on stoutly to the end. BACKGAMMON, rated close to FERVID, was racing resolutely in the final drive. FERVID, kept under mild pressure, weakened when the real test came. TRAFFIC JUDGE made a determined effort approaching the home stretch, but faltered thereafter. FLAMING MAMIE had no excuses.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:15. Off at 5:17. Winner, B. B. Stable's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—EVEN UP, $6.60, $3.00, $2.40; BIDE A WEE, $3.40, $2.40; TAZEWELL, $3.00.

EVEN UP, gained fast when taken to the outside on the back stretch, took a short lead when straightened for the final drive and under severe urging just lasted long enough. BIDE A WEE, rushed hard going to the first turn, followed SQUEEZE PLAY closely while under stiff restraint, took command midway of the back stretch, and came again after losing command. TAZEWELL, taken wide and kept on the outside of his field, finished in determined fashion nearing the finish. ARUNDEL secured racing room on the inside, but could not make up any ground on the leaders during the final drive. SQUEEZE PLAY, steadied early, could not keep pace when vigorously urged. CATERER went well. DARK AYR was rushed through on the inside on the back stretch, but was not good enough. BRAD stopped.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:50. Off at 5:52. Winner, C. C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GENERAL LEJEUNE, $7.00, $4.00, $3.20; FLYING MAX, $7.40, $5.20; ALCMAN, $10.40.

GENERAL LEJEUNE, sent to the front, was rated along until leaving the back stretch, responded readily when forced to a drive and holding on gamely just lasted long enough. FLYING MAX, a strong factor in the early stages, was steadily wearing the winner down nearing the finish. ALCMAN, improving greatly, followed close up and finished with good courage. TUFFY G. broke slowly out of hand and made up a great deal of ground. MY FERGUS closed full of run.

Col. Bradley To Run Two In Derby

Boilermaker, Broker's Tip Hold Hopes of Owner.

LOUISVILLE, KY., April 25 (A.P.).—Col. E. R. Bradley is not disappointed at the showing of Broker's Tip and Boilermaker, second and third to Warren, Jr., in a race at Lexington Saturday, and will start them in the Kentucky Derby May 6.

This announcement was made by H. J. Thompson, trainer for Bradley's Idlehour Farm, who said that with a little better racing luck, Broker's Tip probably would have defeated the Calumet Farm colt.

Only injury or illness will keep them from going to the post in the $50,000 added classic, Thompson said, in an attempt to bring Col. Bradley his fourth Derby victory. Thompson trained all three Bradley's winners, Behave Yourself, Bubbling Over and Burgoo King.

W. R. Coe's Ladyaman, winter book favorite, and other leading contenders, are expected to start leaving Maryland and other Eastern training quarters Sunday.

Meanwhile, stables are arriving daily from Lexington, where the race meeting closed last week, and handlers are fitting them for preliminary racing tests during the first week of the Downs meeting, which begins Saturday. The Derby will be raced the following Saturday.

Cleary Allows Six Bingles, Baroni Gives Five.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

EXHIBITING a brand of baseball not seen on a high school field since the halcyon days of nearly a decade ago, Eastern and Roosevelt opened the 1933 interhigh school championship series yesterday, Eastern winning by a score of 4-0. A small but enthusiastic crowd witnessed the proceedings.

Exercising his prerogative as chief of the Eastern board of strategy, Connie McGraw Guyon crossed up the fans by starting a husky Irishman, Franny Cleary, on the mound instead of Cecil Hale, a veteran hurler, who had been previously selected to attend to the flinging.

One of Few Scholastic Shutouts.

To Cleary goes the honor of pitching one of the few shut-outs recorded in high-school baseball. A lad who has been pursuing education these past six years at Eastern vouchsafed the information that such a feat has not been accomplished in his term at the school, and a search of the records revealed that the interval between shut-outs is even longer than that.

Clearly stopped the Rough Riders with 6 hits, but credit for holding them scoreless must be divided up among the team which supported him in sterling fashion.

Frank (Baloney) Baroni, Roosevelt pitcher, had an edge on his rival, holding Eastern to 5 hits. But two of these came in the sixth inning and were promptly converted into 3 runs with the help of a passed ball and an error.

Eddie Fitzpatrick scored the first, and what turned out to be the only run needed, in round three, starting the trip around the bags with a single to center. He advanced to second on Dicky Fitzgerald's fly-out, went to third on a passed ball, and legged it home when Bassin rolled to Giovanetti.

Nolan and Joe Mills singled to start the sixth, advancing on Keegin's fly. Curtin muffed Wahler's grounder, allowing Keegin to score. Mills and Wahler counted on another passed ball and Smith's infield out.

Rough Riders Wild on Bases.

Base running akin to that of the Brooklyn Daffiness boys cost Roosevelt a run or two in the same session. Joe Sherman, after rapping a single and getting around to second, attempted to score on Garner's bingle to center. But Eddie Fitzpatrick heaved the ball back to Carl Mills so quickly the catcher met Sherman halfway down the base line and then threw to Veihmeyer at second, catching Garner for a double play.

Both teams looked good in the field, and were credited with two double plays apiece. Joe Keegin pulled one for the books when he gathered in Baroni's single and threw to Joe Mills at second for a put out on Curtin, who had walked and was slow in getting away from the base.

RED SOX TO FACE BURKE OR LINKE

Fans were puzzled over Cronin's strikeout with Myer on first in the second, Catcher Dickey letting the ball get away from him. With two out, Cronin was allowed to run, he reaching first and Myer second. Van Atta was credited with a strikeout under the rules and Dickey was charged with an error. What actually happened was that Dickey and Van Atta got their signals crossed, a pitchout being called for. Dickey stepped to the left for it and could not reach the ball, which Cronin missed as it passed close to the batter on the opposite side of the plate.

It.

President Clark Griffith left last night with the Nats for their series in Boston and New York.

Combs and Myer, the two lead-off men, each singled and then there was no more hitting until Van Atta poked a one-shot to right in the third.

Kerr made a great try for Ruth's single in the sixth, knocking down the ball, but being unable to field it. It was the Babe's second hit of the series.

Dave Harris went to the tee in Kuhel's place in the sixth and went out viciously swinging at a third strike. Then Dave finished out at first.

Pitcher Luther (Bud) Stewart had so much on his ball in the ninth that he fooled Catcher Moe Berg twice, passed balls resulting. But it was the Yankee batters Bud was supposed to fool and he didn't, for they added their last three runs in this round.

MD. CHANGES LINE-UP FOR VIRGINIA

Five Players Shifted for Game Today at College Park.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND will present a revamped line-up when it meets Virginia's diamond representatives this afternoon at College Park. Hostilities will begin at 4 o'clock.

Dissatisfied by the team's showing on its Southern tour, Coach Burton Shipley has broken up his original starting combination and shifted five players, a change he hopes will be for the better. "Spider" Chase has been promoted from shortstop to first, McAboy from third to second, Love, a pitcher, has been assigned shortstop, and Dick Nelson stationed at third.

Hymie Gorman, first baseman, will take over the right field duties, replacing Love and Davidson who divided up the work. From now on Davidson will devote all his energy to pitching—and it had better be good pitching—is the ominous warning from Shipley.

Virginia has hopes of chalking up its second straight conference victory. Yesterday the Cavaliers defeated V. M. I., when Capt. Ward Brewer shut the Cadets out with only four hits to win an 8-0 victory. Brewer fanned fourteen.

Coach Gus Tebell has three pitchers available for box duty today, Peck Luck, a slow-ball specialist; Orlin Rogers, a southpaw, and Palmer Lawler.

Walter Kirkwood won a unanimous decision over Billy Schwartz and Cary Wright chalked up his fifteenth straight victory by knocking out Luther McCarthy, of Pittsburgh, in the second round.

Dusek, Raines Rap Lack of Publicity

Cofeatured in everything but the publicity on tomorrow's wrestling card at the Auditorium, little Ernie Dusek and bashful Dick Raines lodged a protest yesterday with Maestro Joe Turner concerning the oversight.

Just when it was time for the publicity department to break out in a rash with volumes of press releases concerning the relative merits of the two, the American Legion appeared on the scene and promptly took over the spotlight.

It's American Legion night at the local Madison Square Garden and the boys intend to put it over in proper style. At 7:30 o'clock the Victory Post Drum Corps will assemble at the Annapolis Hotel, beat a few drums and blow a couple of bugles preparatory to escorting Dick Shikat to the arena. After that Shikat will have to blow his own horn.

Shikat meets Lega Grobmier in the cofeature. Other bouts are limited to 30 minutes. Jim Atlas tackles Eli Fischer, former Rutgers athlete, Vic Christy meets George Katan and Paul Jones will grunt it out with Joe Cox.

WEBB LEADS DENTISTS IN SHOOT

Wins Society's Title; Hayes' 82 Is Low in Golf Play.

DR. T. D. WEBB proved himself the "big shot" of Washington dentistry yesterday by defeating Dr. W. W. Wyman for the trapshooting championship of the District of Columbia Dental Society, at the Congressional Country Club. Dr. Webb broke 24 out of 25 clay pigeons, while Dr. Wyman could only smash 23. The occasion was the annual field day of the District of Columbia Dental Society.

The golf match brought some close scores. Dr. William Hayes, with an 82, won first prize for low gross score. Dr. William B. Connors was second with an 83 and Dr. James T. McClenahan third with an 86. A triple tie resulted in the low net score contest. Dr. William Keroes, with a handicap of 30, shot 103 for a net 73; Dr. A. G. Miller, with a handicap of 25, shot a 98 for a net of 73; Dr. Francis M. Murray, with a handicap of 18, shot a 91 for a net of 73. They drew for the prizes, Dr. Keroes winning first, Dr. Miller second, and Dr. Murray, third.

Washington-Lee Loses To Central High's Nine

Central High School scored a 16-5 victory over Washington-Lee yesterday. The Mount Pleasanters pounded a trio of opposing hurlers for 16 hits, two of them homers by Raub and Gregorio. Victory was costly for the Blue and White as Bill Bryant, regular center fielder, sprained his ankle sliding into third base and may not be able to play in the high school series Friday.

5 Hoya Runs In 9th Beat Temple

Sanzero's Pinch Hit Is Big Feature of 5-4 Victory.

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY tossers came from nowhere yesterday afternoon to score all of their runs in the ninth inning and defeat the Temple Owls, of Philadelphia, 5 to 4. Previously, the Quaker City team had been hitting Neslie here and there to accumulate their runs in small rallies. Two came as a result of homers by Patton, while the others came in the fifth.

Meanwhile, Cramer had been holding the Hoyas well in hand. They did not break into the hit column until the sixth and there was no reason for the Owls to get unduly alarmed when Savarine opened the ninth with a single. Mitchell, next up, was safe on an error and the bases were loaded when Patton was slow getting Hall's roller to second for a force play.

It was here that the Temple nine began to worry, especially when Carpenter singled home a run and Carolin followed with a one-baser that let two more score, making the Hill-toppers only one run behind. Viskovich was hit by a batted ball and then Sanzero ambled to the plate as pinch hitter for Neslie. He came through with a single to left, two runs trotted over the plate and the small gallery of fans went home to supper.

Tardugno Brothers Win and Lose Bouts

Special to The Washington Post.

Boston, April 25.—The Tardugno family got an even break in the National Amateur Boxing tournament here tonight. Angelo, a clever little 118-pounder, outboxed George Pace, Cleveland Negro, in furthering his championship claims, but brother Mike, fighting in the 125-pound division, lost the decision to Bus Breese, Kansas State College battler, in a sizzling bout. Angy Tardugno will fight again tomorrow night.

FRAT LEAGUE AT CENTRAL.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

GEORGE V, King of England and Head of the royal house of Windsor, ruling house of England, traces his royal ancestry back to James I (1603-25), but the house of Windsor is not as old as the king himself—not even as old as the Prince of Wales.

The name of the ruling house was changed by proclamation of the king on July 17, 1917, when it was announced that he had abandoned all German titles for himself and his family. It was provided that hence the royal house of Great Britain and Ireland would be known, not as Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, but as Windsor.

George V's grandfather, Albert, was of the house of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. Edward VII, father of the present king, was the son of Victoria and Albert. The royal family bore the name of Albert until it was changed during the war.

An old law of physics is the law of the lever. Equal weights balance only when they are at equal distances from the pivot. Above, however, is a drawing of a simple arrangement of levers that seeems to disprove this proven law of physics. The weights, assumed to be equal, are not equidistant from the fulcrum—yet they balance.

The explanation is: The weights exert their respective force only at the point at which they are rigidly fixed to the upright arms, which are the same distance from the fulcrum —hence they balance.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Fireside Inflation Talks. Part 1.

THE—Just what is inflation, dear?

He—Haven't you read the papers?

She—Yes, that's just the trouble. What does inflation mean?

He (stalling)—It means inflation. The opposite of deflation.

She—Yes, but how does it work? Do you understand it, Hemingway?

He (determined not to weaken)—Of course. Not every little detail, perhaps, but I understand it in a general way. It just means issuing more money.

She—But isn't there plenty of money in the country?

He—Yes, but you see with inflation the dollar will buy more. . . .

She—More? You mean less, don't you?

He (wishing she hadn't started it)—Er, yes, I should say less. It's a little confusing, my dear. If the country issues more money, then the dollar will buy less. In other words the fellow with something to sell will get more dollars for it than before.

She—The dollar will be worth less?

He—Of course.

• • • •

SHE (quite perplexed but still determined)—But if the man with something to sell gets more dollars that are worth less, how does he get any more than he got when the dollar was not worth less?

He (goggly-eyed)—Huh?

She—I say if a man gets more dollars for his goods, but each dollar is worth less than when he got fewer dollars for his goods, how does he get any more when the dollar is not worth as much as it was before?

He (struggling nobly)—Ahem. It's like this. If he gets more dollars they are worth more to him than they really were when they were worth more. Understand?

She—Not quite.

HE—It's confusing, I know. Listen, dear, and see if you follow me. The dollar is worth so much in gold.

She (making a fresh start)—Okay.

He—Now then, under inflation the same dollar would be worth less in gold. See?

She—Uhuh.

He—Well, today a farmer has to give, let me say for purposes of illustration, fifty cucumbers for a dollar. Now if we make the dollar worth less he will have to give only twenty-five cucumbers.

She—Why?

He—Because there will be more dollars in circulation. In other words, when he gets two dollars for what he used to sell for five dollars he will be getting more than he really got when he got more.

She—When he got less, you mean.

He (mopping his brow)—No, dear; you just don't understand.

• • • •

SHE—What I want to know is how it will affect our savings. Suppose we have $10,000 in the bank. Now, under inflation, those dollars will buy more?

He (exasperated)—No, they'll buy less.

She—Well, then, our $10,000 will not be worth $10,000?

He—It will still be $10,000, but it will be worth less in terms of what it will buy.

She—How will it still be $10,000 if it won't buy $10,000 worth of goods?

He—Because the stuff you buy for the $10,000 will be worth more.

She (wearily)—Who?

He (completely sunk)—How should I know?

TRAFFIC CONGESTION.

A serious accident was reported in New York Harbor the other day. Two liners full of premiers ran into a fleet of Columbia advisers to the administration.

It looks like another crisis. When former Premier Herriot landed in America, the band struck up, "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?"

Little Congress Selects Officers

Precedent Is Upset When Complete New Slate Is Chosen.

Upsetting a precedent of 14 years duration, a complete set of new officers was elected last night in the Little Congress, composed of secretaries and employes on Capitol Hill.

Lyndon B. Johnson was elected speaker; Jack Frost was named clerk, and Ray Johnson, sergeant at arms. All are Democrats.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE

The number of accidents on city streets and the Nation's highways is a serious indictment against modern civilization. Development of mechanical devices has been rapid in the last half century, but with it has come an appalling loss of life.

Care both in operating vehicles and maintenance of the mechanical efficiency of automobiles will reduce the death and injury hazards.

The answer to the challenge of a high mortality rate due to traffic is up to the individual driver.

"Be Careful."

New York Pastor Calls for Church Cooperation in Dinner Address.

Not until the Protestant Church is brought together in greater unity and oneness will it have reached its ultimate usefulness to humanity, Dr. George A. Buttrick, pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, of New York City, declared before the Washington Federation of Churches at its annual meeting and dinner last night at Calvary Baptist Church.

Exhorting his colleagues the world over to work for greater cooperation in their ranks, Dr. Buttrick praised the work of the Washington Federation, saying that only through organized church work can the word of God be brought to a suffering mankind, which is even now crying to be shown the right way.

Dr. Buttrick's topic was the 'Marks of a Vital Church," and under that title he set forth four subheads which, he said, formed the bulkwork of such a church. They are:

1. An adventurous message, method and program.
2. The church must be democratic.

4. It must have a reverent spirit.

BARRY ADMITS SHOT THAT KILLED SEIGEL

Bond Salesman Testifies He Thought He Was About to Be Attacked.

Joseph T. Barry, bond salesman, yesterday admitted on the witness stand in Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue's court that he shot and killed Israel Seigel last December because he thought he was about to be attacked.

Barry, who is under indictment for first degree murder, said early on December 13, 1932, he went to Rosslyn, Va., and purchased a revolver and five bullets. He then sought Seigel to warn him about paying attention to Mrs. Ruth Goebel.

He said that he had previously asked Seigel not to see Mrs. Goebel any more. On the date of the shooting, he said, he drove to Seigel's place of employment at Eleventh and Kenyon streets northwest, and waited in front of the store. He declared Seigel ran and jumped into a grocer's truck, reached back as if to secure a weapon.

After the shooting, he said, he returned to his roming house, and later went to the office of his attorney, Cedric F. Johnson, and surrendered.

Barry is being prosecuted by John J. Sirica, who brought out, through several witnesses, that Siegel was shot as he sat in his brother's truck. He intimated that it was Barry's jealousy that caused the shooting.

Springs Again to Bubble In Rock Creek Section

The dozen odd springs in northern Rock Creek Park are expected by park officials to again bubble forth their clear, cold water after two years of inactivity due to droughts and to lack of snowfall during the winter of 1931-32.

Fair snowfall last winter is believed to have saturated the high ridges in the north portion of the sylvan reservation so that adequate water for the springs is expected this summer.

RENOVIZE CAMPAIGN OPENS TODAY WITH REMOVAL OF HOUSE

Old Structure to Be Made Over to Show Skeptical What They Can Do.

The renovize Washington campaign will be officially launched at 10 a. m. today when a dilapidated one-story house is moved on a truck from the grounds of Columbia Hospital to the plot of ground opposite the new Department of Commerce Building.

The committee in charge of the campaign will begin restoration of the old house into a modern dwelling to show local home owners just what can be done with a few dollars at the present time, when both material and labor are cheap. Materials for renovating the exhibition house have been contributed by local builders and the labor is voluntary.

Plenty of Publicity.

Through advertising, news stories, radio talks and speeches, the committee hopes to induce a large number of local property owners to remodel and repair their properties, thus furnishing new business and new outlets for labor, and at the same time benefit themselves.

Headquarters of the campaign will be in room 221, Star Building. Information will be furnished from this quarter on any subject relative to remodeling or restoring of buildings. No information will be given regarding the work of any specific firm, as each person will be expected to place his work with contractors and dealers with whom he usually deals, it was announced.

Those in Charge.

The operating committee is composed of the following: W. W. Wheeler, publicity; Delos Smith, research; Francis Sullivan, demonstration; E. H. Rosengarten, exposition; Charles H. Tompkins, construction; Mrs. H. D. Reed, women's advisory, and J. Harry Cunningham, treasurer.

The idea of conducting a renovize campaign in the District was proposed by the Washington Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and sponsored by the Washington Board of Trade. Arthur B. Heaton, local architect, was named general chairman in charge. Similar campaigns have been conducted with success in Detroit, Philadelphia and other cities.

Harriss Advocates Remaining Off Gold

New York Broker Says Country Must Delay Resuming Standard.

"It is imperative that our country not return to the gold standard for some time," Robert Harriss, of Harriss & Vose, of New York, declared yesterday.

"After we have expanded our currency," he said, "so as to restore values of commodities, raw materials, farms, real estate and other values, we can then revalue the ounce of gold."

Unemployed Get Permit to Parade

Commissioners May Alter Route Asked For by Council.

The Washington Unemployed Council was authorized yesterday to stage a parade in Washington May 1 as part of the local celebration of the international radical demonstration, but the District Commissioners reserved the right to alter the route asked by the council.

A delegation of five, headed by Charles Spencer, executive secretary of the council, called on the commission yesterday morning and announced its intention of staging a parade whether or not the District heads granted a permit. A short while after the conference, the Commissioners announced their decision.

The paraders plan to have a delegation call on the Commissioners on May Day and renew their demands for a dole and greater employment relief. They also intend to ask the Commissioners to join in a protest against the Scottsboro decision.

Cosmic Ray Flights Into Space Related

California Scientists Describe Result of Tests in Stratosphere; Discovery of Element Which Causes Blushing Also Announced.

Flights into the stratosphere on the cosmic ray were described by R. A. Millikan and I. S. Bowen, of the California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, Calif., at the annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences here yesterday.

Three successful flights were made last summer, the scientists said; one reached an altitude of approximately 27 kilometers, one of 21 kilometers and one of 16. On two of the flights reliable records were obtained of the cosmic ray intensities as a function of altitude up to 18 kilometers, the stratosphere Magellans reported.

At the latter altitude, it was found, the cosmic ray intensities are approximately 100 times greater than at sea level, and the intensity altitude curve is of such shape as to indicate that the rays entering the atmosphere have not yet got into the equilibrium with their secondaries.

Dr. Millikan together with Dr. H. V. Neher, obtained direct measurements of the penetrating power of the cosmic rays existing in different levels. This was obtained with a new type of electroscope designed so as to give accurate readings up to 29,000 feet.

It was found that the rays show a rapid softetning with altitude, and essentially the same softening in temperate latitudes as in equatorial latitudes.

The observed behavior can be best described in terms of cosmic ray photon bands of widely differing penetrating power, the less penetrating bands coming into play at the higher altitudes, Dr. Millikan said. The cosmic rays constitute the greater part of the total radiant energy in the universe, it was pointed out.

Discovery of a new substance called "sympathin" secreted by the muscles of the internal organs was announced by Dr. Walter B. Cannon, professor of physiology at Harvard University.

It is responsible for such things as sweating, heart beat, blushing and other emotional disturbances.

The ordinary person sitting quietly loses in weight about 30 grams per hour, due chiefly to the vaporizing of water from the lungs and skin, Dr. Francis G. Benedict, of the nutrition laboratory of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, revealed.

"This insensible loss in weight, the so-called 'insensible perspiration,'" Dr. Benedict said, "is closely correlated with the total heat production, and hence varies with the size of the individual and with the metabolism. This measurement has important relation to studies in the so-called 'water balance' and is of significance in cases where the metabolism can not be measured directly. This its use for estimating the total heat production of people for 24 hours has been of great value."

Recent developments in telephonic transmission have made possible artistic results hitherto unattainable in orchestral music, F. B. Jewett, vice president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., told the academy.

The new system makes possible a greatly increased range of tone and loudness through the use of three separate transmission channels, he said.

U. S. SHARE OF D. C. UPKEEP HELD LOW

Citizens' Group Makes Claim After Taxation Survey of Capital Set-Up.

Completing an investigation into District taxation methods, the Logan-Thomas Circle Citizens Association, last night declared that the old 60-40 ratio of Federal-District fiscal relations is not being adhered to and that at present the Government's contribution toward local finances is not more than 16 per cent.

Members of the association voiced the possibility of lower local tax rates if tax exemption would be eliminated from churches, schools and hospitals. Dr. Thomas F. Evans, speaking before the association, voiced the opinion that a majority would much rather pay the tax on these institutions rather than carry a greater assessment over the whole city. Results of investigation were revealed by H. E. Young, chairman of the taxation committee.

The association also recommended that Fire Department officials be chosen from those who have had five years local experience with the department; improvement of sidewalk and street conditions at Logan Circle and Kingman place and the installation of new car tracks on Eleventh street, between M street and Massachusetts avenue.

Man Is Wounded In Burglar Fight

Thief Dives Out Window and Escapes After Being Fired On.

A colored thief entering a house and adjoining grocery at 654 Nineteenth street northeast early yesterday, encountered two of its occupants and escaped in a 20-foot plunge through a window in the face of revolver fire. He slashed, with a knife, one of the men who tried to capture him.

Herman Weisblatt, proprietor of the store, was awakened by his wife and descended the stairs where he found the cash register rifled of a small sum. He started after the thief, who was grappling with Samuel Richmond, Weisblatt's brother-in-law. The grocery proprietor fired a revolver and the intruder slashed Richmond with a knife and plunged through a nearby window.

Police followed a trail of blood for several blocks, but were unable to apprehend the thief. Richmond was treated at Casualty Hospital.

Sperry Is Asked What Part of Proposed Improvement Will Aid Employment.

Early action will be sought in the House on the proposed merger of the Washington Gas Light Co. with the Georgetown Gas Light Co., because of the "emergency" nature of the legislation, Representative Loring M. Black jr. (Democrat), New York, said last night following hearings before his House District public utilities subcommittee.

Representative Black withheld a report pending consultation with members of his subcommittee. He asked President M. L. Sperry of the Washington Gas Light Co. to submit a detailed statement of the $1,250,000 in proposed improvements, and what part of the amount will go to jobs, if the two companies are authorized to merge.

Testimony again hinged on the issue of whether "going concern" should be eliminated from the companies' valuation, as proposed in an amendment by People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech.

Amendment Called Impossible.

Wilton J. Lambert, a director of the company, said flatly it would be impossible for the companies to accept the amendment.

"It will be useless for you to pass this legislation if that amendment is added," he said. "We could not live under it."

President Sperry said the companies could not go forward with the $1,250,000 expansion program if the merger is not authorized. Officials of the company want the right to issue more stock, and the merger would give them this right. They said there is only $2,600,000 of stock outstanding, as against $15,199,500 in bonds, contending that a sound financial set-up should not carry more than 60 per cent of funded indebtedness. There has been no increase in the company's common stock since 1896.

History of Outside Control.

Riley Eigen, a member of the Public Utilities Commission, submitted a statement recommending the committee approve the merger without the Keech or any other amendment.

George E. Sullivan, vice president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, supported the position taken by People's Counsel Keech, contending that the public will get no benefits from the merger unless franchise value and going concern value are eliminated.
